LONDON AIR-MAIL LETTER

Parliamentary Privilege: Prince Sets Fashion: The House Of Lords: Viscount Lee: Mr. McKenna On "Reflation." The American Steel Dispute: Surplus Of Death Duties:

(Special Air Mail Service).

London, June 14. The report of the Committee of Privileges on the charges brought by Mr. Winston Churchill against Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Derby is probably the biggest document ever presented by that body.

Questions of Parliamentary privilege are not often raised. This is only the sixth occasion during the present century in which the Committee has been asked to give a verdict.

The earlier instances occurred in 1909, 1911, 1924, 1926, and 1930. In the majority of these cases the Committee experienced no difficulty in agreeing upon its report after two or three sittings.

To arrive at the report which it has now presented the Committee has found it necessary to hold sixteen meetings, extending over a period of eight weeks.

"GROSS LIEB ON THE HOUSE" The most interesting of these recent reports was that arising out of charges brought by Mr. Sandham, the Socialist M.P. for Kirkdale, in 1930.

Mr. Sandham alleged that "members could receive bribes to help to pass doubtful bills in the interests of private individuals," and could "get stupidly drunk" in the House.

Since Mr. Sandham refused to give any particulars, either as to names or circumstances, the Committee decided against any recommendation for an investigation of the general charges.

Instead they declared that he had committed a gross breach of privilege, and was guilty of a gross libel on the House, for which he was deserving of censure.

THE PRINCE'S BOATER

The arrival of the Prince of Wales at Sywell Aerodrome yesterday was awaited by a large muster of members of the Northamptonshire Aero Club.

Most of them were wearing soft hats. When they saw the Lord Lieutenant, the Marquis of Exeter, and Earl Spencer arrive in bowlers several hurried to their cars or to the club house to exchange their soft hats for bowlers.

But the Prince, as he stepped from his monoplane, was wearing a boater.

This form of headgear defeated every body.

RIGHT OF ENTRY TO THE LORDS

Behind Lord Arnold's motion to tighten up the regulations governing admission to the chamber of the House of Lords during its sittings is a notion that the great Conservative majority is stealing an advantage over the tiny Labour minority.

For twenty-five years or more there has been in existence a group of 120 Conservative peers—they include such men as Lord Salisbury, Lord Litchfield, Lord Fitzalan, and Lord Elbank—who act in consultation on all important questions.

Membership of the group is confined to peers not members of the Government of the day. It costs two guineas a year. They meet regularly to discuss lines of policy, and are advised on legal matters by Sir John Seymour-Lloyd, K.C.

Lord Arnold's Grievances.

Custom not wholly in accordance with the rules of the House has led to Sir John Seymour-Lloyd finding a seat for himself just inside the Chamber on the right of the Throne.

Lord Arnold feels that this gives the Conservatives an unfair advantage. He wishes to exclude all persons other than those specifically declared to have the privilege of access and "personal private secretaries" of the three party leaders.

I gather also that the Library tends to become congested with peers' private secretaries. This also irritates Lord Arnold. According to Standing Orders only peers and M.P.s have the right to enter the Library.

It is probable that the whole matter will be referred to the House of Lords Committee. Among those who now have the privilege of being in the Chamber during sittings are Privy Counsellors, eldest sons of peers, House and Government office officials, bishops not in their robes, and Irish non-representative peers.

ANOTHER LEE

Viscount Lee of Fareham is president of the Royal Hospital and Home for incurables at Putney.

All members of the committee know that he takes a deep interest in the work, but some of them were astonished to see that almost daily the visitors' book contained the entry, "Lee, Chairman."

It was not the president who was calling every day, but another Lee, a bathchamberman, who wheeled disabled patients round the grounds.

EX-CHANCELLOR AS BANKER

Despite minor fluctuations recently, the dollar which after its devaluation in the early part of the year slid downward alarmingly, now seems to have found its own level, as predicted and desired by the supporters of a managed currency.

In this country the most important exponent of a managed currency is Mr. Reginald McKenna, the chairman of the Midland Bank. No 18 in my Saturday Portrait Gallery.

Mr. McKenna was preaching the doctrine of "reflation" long before Britain went off the Gold Standard. Although no joint-stock banker may have a seat on the board of directors of the Bank of England, the views of the Big Five naturally carry a great deal of weight with the Governor.

Mr. McKenna's "reflationist" views however, have in the past caused him not to see eye to eye with Mr. Montagu Norman, who scarcely shares them.

When in 1919 he became a director of the Midland Bank, Mr. McKenna was the first ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer to leave Westminster for the City, although his example was later followed by Sir Robert Horne.

A DIFFERENCE OF STYLE General Johnson's intervention in the American steel dispute seems to have done little to improve the heated atmosphere. If the employers are obdurate, so are the men.

Their recent manifesto was couched in language racy, if not less effective, than the pronouncements of Transport House. One passage ran:

"The N.R.A. has come to mean 'National-Run-Around.' We object to Gen. Johnson hanging more head cases on the President. If the gentlemen of the Iron and Steel Institute have trouble in accepting the President's invitation to put their knees under the same table with ours then 300,000 steel workers are ready on June 16 to shut down their works so it will be quiet enough to talk."

Compare that with Mr. Andrew Conkey, chairman of the T.U.C. General Council, at the recent National Industrial Alliance lunch. Mr. Conkey said that he supported the principal of industrial co-operation "for the general good of industry, the community and the nation."

THE CHANCELLOR'S WINDFALLS Last year, as Mr. Neville Chamberlain pointed out in his Budget speech, there was a surplus in the death duties of £17,000,000 estate of Sir John Ellerman, he added: "We cannot expect a repetition of the occurrence another year."

Since the beginning of the present financial year in April, however, the Treasury has had many windfalls under this head.

Several wills of about £1,000,000 have been proved. That of the late Major J. A. Berners was nearly £1,200,000. There have also been a number between £100,000 and £500,000. I now hear that the will of the late Sir Richard Garton, deputy chairman of Watney Combe Reid and Co. and a director of Manbre and Garton, will be found to exceed £2,000,000. The Chancellor will, therefore, receive a million no this estate alone.

Electrical Co-operation And Planning

The annual dinner of the British Electrical and Allied Manufacturers' Association was held at the Connaught Rooms, London, on Thursday, May 17, the President (The Earl of Derby, K.G.) being in the chair. Without wishing to appear unduly imaginative, it would seem that the speeches made by the two members of the Association were designed to draw the representatives of the Government present regarding their intentions towards the electrical industry. If that were so, they were not very successful, as the replies dealt mainly in generalities with which a good deal of "co-operation in industry" was proposed by Mr. M. J. Ralling, the chairman of the Association, who said that twenty years ago individualism was the prevailing note. The war, however, besides stimulating our scientists, inventors and engineers, also taught us that the pooling of interests made for strength and efficiency. That lesson had led the British electrical industry, since the cessation of hostilities, to build up a system of co-operation more successful than any organisations in other industrial lands. Its products had a reputation which was second to none and it had thereby succeeded in regaining a leading position in the markets of the world. During the past two years the Government had taken steps to counter the dumping policy of other competitive countries, but it was their duty to inaugurate similar measures for the protection of the protection of the industry from within. In the end, cut-throat competition benefited no one, and lowered the standard of industry generally. The value of a strong central co-operative organisation, such as their own, therefore, seemed to be beyond argument, for it could perform a most valuable service to the country, by acting as a clearing house to which leaders of finance could come for advice. Railway electrification was one of the subjects which might be dealt with in this way. It had already been their privilege to be consulted by the Government on a number of occasions, and, given still further recognition, he could visualise a great increase in the Association's capacity to be of service. Dr. E. L. Burgin, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, in reply, insisted that the duties of his Department were not so much to restrain, as to foster, trade and he hoped that the electrical industry would take it into their confidence and lay all the facts before it. The toast of "Our Guests" was proposed by Lord Weir, whose remarks were mainly of a political nature. Referring to the grid, he said that it was the first and by far the greatest example of the complete planning of a national utility service in any great country in the world. It was not socialism, but an example of Great Britain's commonsense and evolutionary method of dealing with major problems on a constitutional basis. It had resulted in placing the electrical industry in the very first rank for work of that kind, and had enabled it to deal with the most advanced foreign demands with complete confidence. While he agreed with Sir Josiah Stamp that steam traction could be further improved, he suggested that if the same consideration were devoted to electricity, even better results would be obtained. This country was, in fact, particularly suitable for a very wide adoption of electric traction. Lieutenant-Colonel J. Colville and Sir John Brooke replied. Finally, the health of "The Chairman" was proposed by Mr. John Taylor, and Lord Derby's reply showed that his technique in the difficult art of after-dinner speaking is surer to-day than it ever has been.

DANGERS OF BREATHING ASBESTOS DUST

Pointing out that there are several varieties of asbestos containing various proportions of silicate of magnesia, a writer in the Bulletin of the Industrial Commissioner of New York State says that breathing the dust of this substance is bad for the health, just as the breathing of almost any other foreign substance is deleterious. Workers who have to handle asbestos fibre or material should, it is stated, avoid as far as possible breathing the dust, and employers should take care to have suitable ventilation in places where asbestos dust is generated. It is quite probable, the writer goes on to say, that the disease resulting from the breathing of asbestos dust will be similar to that resulting from silica. If that be so, manufacturers or handlers of asbestos products might begin immediately, he suggests, to prevent trouble, because of the fact that, like silicosis, the disease can be prevented. There is, it is added, no cure.

FATAL ROAD ACCIDENTS

Crucial Factor Not Speed

The Report on Fatal Road Accidents during 1933, which has been published by H.M. Stationery Office, forms an addendum and amplification to an earlier document covering the first six months of that period. We dealt with this at some length at the time it appeared, and nothing has taken place in the interim to alter the views we expressed on that occasion. It is equally clear that as yet nothing has been done to check the great loss of life that is occurring on the roads of the country. During the year there were 7,001 fatal accidents involving the death of 7,202 persons. The best that can be said about these figures is that they are not so high as those for 1930. The number of accidents analysed is 6,942, involving the death of 7,134 persons and of these 3,401, or 49 per cent, occurred between one vehicle and a pedestrian, and accounted for 3,517 deaths. There were 2,285 accidents between moving vehicles, representing 32.9 per cent. of the total. Other causes were collisions with stationary objects and animals, the latter, however, accounting for less than 1 per cent. of the total.

The number of accidents occurring on straight roads was 4,808, or nearly 70 per cent. of the total, while 4,199 took place where the traffic was very light and only 224 where it was dense, which seems to provide one answer to those who argue that speed is "per se" not a cause of the trouble. Over 85 per cent. of the accidents occurred in clear weather and nearly two-thirds of the total in daylight. The most fatal hours were between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m., 12 noon and 1 p.m., 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., and 10 p.m. and 11 p.m., the third of these periods being the worst. Saturday was the day with the highest, and Sunday the day with the lowest, average. Of the 9,612 vehicles involved, 2,796 were private motorcars, 1,959 motor cycles, 1939 motor vans and lorries, and 1,625 pedal cycles. As regards speed, the figures would suggest that in the 6,857 cases, in which estimates were given, 1,300 of the vehicles involved were proceeding at speeds not exceeding 10 m.p.h., and 2,818 were at speeds not exceeding 20 m.p.h.

ENGINEERING & BUILDING

THE PRESERVATION OF SCIENTIFIC APPARATUS

There is always a grave risk that apparatus with which great discoveries and inventions have been made will completely disappear, and in fact, in the past, in many instances it has done so. From time to time different public bodies have recognised this fact and appreciating the importance and desirability of preserving such appliances have taken steps to arrange for their safe housing and care. But there are many difficulties in securing objects of this kind, particularly in their original form. More often than not, a research worker or inventor will subsequently modify his first successful apparatus or device beyond recognition. Or again, he may, on the completion of some particular piece of work, strip it of parts for use for other things. Even if he is willing to present the apparatus to a public institution for preservation, it will often be necessary to supply him with replacements for some of the more costly parts, such as he might desire, or at least expect, to utilise in future work. Frequently financial questions will not allow of anything of this kind.

Most of the examples of early instruments or apparatus known to us to-day date from the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries. Those from earlier times have only survived in rare and isolated cases. The reason for this is not far to seek, for the practice of gathering together objects of any kind for their interest or rarity is comparatively recent and for a long time it was only in the houses of rulers or wealthy nobles that such collections were made; even then objects were selected rather for their value or artistic merit or some similar reason, and without particular regard to their historical importance.

It is known that many valuable old pieces of apparatus are constantly being lost through the ignorance of their present owners. Often passed down from generation to generation, they are finally put on the scrap heap with "other rubbish." So small is the trade in "scientific antiquities" to-day compared with that in art, that few people are able to assess the value of anything which comes to light, and there are still fewer people actually searching for such treasures.

For his presidential address to the Institute of Physics on Tuesday, May 15, entitled "Physics and Science Museums," Sir Henry Lyons spoke of the work the Institute had done in assisting him as director of the Science Museum in South Kensington, and of the similar service it is still rendering to his successor. Some time ago a special committee was set up by the Institute with the object of locating pieces of physical apparatus of special historical importance and to ensure as far as possible that anything of the kind should be preserved from deterioration or loss. By various means such as letters in The Times and elsewhere, and by inquiries, the committee we understand, has brought to light many objects which were little known to physicists generally, and of which the historical importance had frequently not been fully appreciated.

The great rapidity with which physical science has advanced since the beginning of the century has tended to obscure the historical aspect of the recent developments. We have voluminous written records and accounts of the experiments which have been made, as well as fairly complete accounts of the apparatus and machines which were employed; but it is extremely difficult to describe apparatus in sufficient detail to enable a reconstruction to be made years afterwards. Apart, therefore, from what we may call the sentimental reasons for ensuring the preservation of such apparatus, there is the more material one of regarding it as essentially part of a record of the greatest assistance to later workers in the same field, as well as to seriously-minded students.

TRADE MARKS REPORT

The Riches of the East

It was written of old that "he who would bring back the riches of the East must bring the riches of the East with him!" So he who desires to profit by a perusal of the report recently published by a Committee of the Board of Trade on the reform of the law relating to trade marks must bring to his task a mind conversant with the existing law on the subject. For the labours of the committee have resulted in the production of a document which is by no means easy reading. It is not even easy for the lawyer who is unfamiliar with a highly specialised branch of the law. It is still more difficult, for the layman.

It is, however, desirable that some of the more important suggestions of the committee should, if possible, be explained in language that shall be at once non-technical and apposite, and this the following remarks attempt to do.

It is significant of the need for inquiry into the law and practice relating to trade marks that the committee have found it necessary to modify the very definition of the term trade mark. At present it means, "a mark used or proposed to be used upon or in connection with goods for the purpose of indicating that they are the goods of the proprietor of such trade mark by virtue of manufacture, selection, certification, dealing with or offering for sale." Various proposals were made for amending this definition, with the result that the committee recommend that it shall take the following form. For the sake of clarity we have quoted the alterations.

"A trade mark 'other than a certification trade mark' shall mean a mark used or proposed to be used by the proprietor upon or in physical or other relation to goods for the purpose of indicating or so as to indicate a connection in the course of trade between the proprietor of the mark and the goods."

A "certification trade mark" shall mean a mark registered under the provisions of section 62. A brief explanation of these changes in the definition may be found useful. In the first place, a certification trade mark, being a mark registered by some association or other body and being connected with the origin, material, or quality of an article it is obviously convenient to differentiate between the certification and the ordinary trade mark. The words "by the proprietor" are inserted in the definition for reasons connected with a recommendation of the committee that a trade mark should, in future, be assignable independently of the goodwill of a business. It is, therefore, considered necessary to make it clear in the definition of a trade mark that an applicant for registration must himself have used or must himself propose to use the mark to indicate a connection in the course of trade between him and the goods. This requirement may, however, be relaxed in the case of what are termed "registered users" and proposed use by a company not incorporated at the date of registration.

Registered Users.
This kind of user of a trade mark is to be met by certain other recommendations of the committee in relation to registered users.

The next important question dealt with by the committee relates to certain amendments of section 9 of the Trade Mark Act, 1905, which states the essential characteristics of a registrable trade mark. It has always been a requirement that a trade mark shall be "distinctive" and for the purposes of the existing law that word means "adapted to distin-

Recent Engineering Contracts

Messrs. Sir William Arrol and Company, Limited, Glasgow, have been awarded a contract for a four-ton electric wharf grabbing crane for the Gas Light and Coke Company's works at Brentford.

Messrs. Bradley Pulverizer Company, 37, Walbrook, London, E.C.4, have received orders for two of their 30-in. Griffin mills from Messrs. Robert Broadbent and Son, Limited, Stalybridge, for use in limestone quarries, which they are equipping with complete pulverising plants; and for one of their 24-in. Griffin mills from a company in India for grinding burnt lime and limestone. We understand that the firm's apparatus is being used to an increasing extent in quarries for pulverising limestone, whinstone, and other materials to fine powder, to be used as fillers for road mastics, paint, abrasives, and other purposes, and also for agricultural limestone.

Messrs. The England Electric Company, Limited, Stafford, have received two important orders for transformers. The first is from the Central Electricity Board, for two 30,000-kVA transformers for installation at Bury. These will operate on the 33-kV secondary transmission system and will be coupled with on-load tap-changing equipment. The second order is from the Victoria Falls and Transvaal Power Company, for a 45,000-kVA bank of transformers. These will be used to couple together a 42,000-volt and a 21,000-volt system. On load tap-changing gear will be provided to give a wide range of voltage regulation on the 42,000-volt side.

Messrs. The General Electric Company, Limited, Magnet House, Kingsway, London, W.C.2, have secured from the Transport Department of the Glasgow Corporation an order covering 85 sets of tramway-car electrical equipment. A total of 170 Wilton tramway motors are involved, each set consisting of two 60-h.p. self-ventilated motors of the interpole type, together with a set of grid resistances, and two tramway-car type circuit breakers. The above is a repeat order, 450 similar motors have been supplied in 1930.

Mr. J. R. Johnston, Globe Works, Hyde, Cheshire, has received an order of thirteen 9 1/16-in. square plated-hemp driving ropes, each of 78 ft. 7-in. running length, from Messrs. The South Kirby Featherstone and Hemsworth Collieries, Limited, Pontefract, for their South Kirby Colliery. An order for twelve 1-in. square plated-hemp driving ropes, each of 80 ft. running length, has also been received from Messrs. The Powell Duffryn Steam Coal Company, Limited, Ystrad Mynach, near Cardiff, for their Aberaman generating station.

DANASCOT BACK IN SHANGHAI

Adventurous Yachtsmen Complete Cruise

Shanghai, June 28. Captain S. P. Jorgensen, who sailed from Nagasaki on his return trip to Shanghai last Wednesday, arrived yesterday evening at 7.30 p.m. He did not put in at Peking Road Jetty as was anticipated but stopped at the Canal and then went straight to his home. Capt. Jorgensen was accompanied on both trips by Mr. N. D. Jensen.

To a "North-China Daily News" reporter Captain Jorgensen said he was very tired. "As a matter of fact we had a rough passage back," he said. He arrived at Woosung at 2 p.m. yesterday and would have been in earlier but the fates were against him. For a time he and his companion were becalmed and then to make matters worse, the auxiliary engine gave trouble. The two hardy adventurers did not get in until nearly 7.30 in the evening.

Captain Jorgensen left Shanghai at the beginning of this month accompanied by Mr. N. D. Jensen, in the Danascot. They accomplished the trip in the record time of four and a half days on the outward journey. After staying here for some time they commenced the return trip on June 20. The next news heard was a cablegram from Captain Jorgensen stating he was weather-bound at Mishima, but otherwise all was well.

Rumours were heard early yesterday morning that Capt. Jorgensen had arrived at Woosung at 3 a.m. on Saturday. This was later proved to be wrong when it was learnt that Captain Jorgensen had passed the Woosung Harbour Office at approximately 3 p.m. It was anticipated that in all probability Captain Jorgensen would return to the same jetty as that from which he started, which was Peking Road Jetty. Captain Jorgensen, however, did not come so far up river, owing to their misfortunes from Woosung onwards.

Locally Built
The Danascot was built at Shanghai. She is not a very large vessel, being 27 feet over-all. She was modelled from the old-type Danish pilot boat and is junk rigged. The boat is sturdily built and broad beamed. Her skipper, Captain Jorgensen is a Shanghai pilot.

There have now been five crossings to Japan. The first was made in 1930 by the Chelidon. In 1931, the Chelidon and Nidaros raced against each other. Last year the Chelidon made her second solo trip. On each of her voyages she has been captained by Mr. H. Aust.

The Danascot made her initial trip across this year, and it is a great credit to her skipper that the voyage should have been made in a record time from Shanghai to Nagasaki in four and a half days. The Danascot flies the Danish flag, though she is partly owned by a Scotsman. After the trip across repairs were carried out at Nagasaki prior to the return journey to Shanghai.

GAY GATHERING IN LONDON

Popularity Of The Reels

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, June 14. "The skirl of the pipes and the tuneful strains of 'Petronella' and 'Duke of Perth' were heard in London, when for the eighty-sixth year the Royal Caledonian Ball took place at Grosvenor House, Park Lane.

The ball opened a week which is to be crowded with brilliant functions, but even the Royal Courts at Buckingham Palace to-morrow night and on Wednesday will scarcely surpass in colourful picturequeness this gay gathering of braw Scotsmen and their ladies. The men wore Highland dress—the rich tartans of their own clans or of their famous regiments—and the women were in softly draped gowns in delicate colourings, a sash of their clan tartan fastened to one shoulder and carried across the corseage of their dresses like an order.

Old Friends Meet

Long before dancing was due to begin they thronged the promenades leading to the huge ballrooms, and there was the usual delightful reunion of old friends and welcome of new ones, which makes such an effective introduction to this outstanding ball of the London season. Neither England nor Ireland, nor the countryside of either, can provide a social gathering with quite the same atmosphere of care-free friendliness. The huge parties that are made up by Scottish hostesses, mingling and intermingling all through the evening. The spirit of fun takes possession and touches old and young alike with his happy wand and gay laughter, and happy repartee are to be heard everywhere above the music.

Scottish Debutantes

This year the Duke and Duchess of Atholl—who always do so much for the success of the ball and regard it as a family responsibility in that the idea of it originated with the Duke's father in 1849—did not themselves join in the set reels with which the ball always opens. Instead, preceded by the pipers and drummers of the 2nd Battalion of the Scots Guards, they led the procession of reel dancers down into the ballroom, and then took their places in the huge throng of lookers-on. A number of their relatives were, however, in the different sets, and every Scottish family of note was represented by its young people. A group of the Scottish debutantes of the year is always invited to take part in the set reels, and among them to-day was Lady Georgina Hay, the second daughter of the Marquis and Marchioness of Tweeddale; while the Duchess of York's family was represented by Lord and Lady Strathmore's granddaughter, the Hon. Jean Elphinstone, and by their grandson, the Master of Elphinstone. Lord Strathmore himself away from his Parliamentary duties in order to take part, and he and Lady Strathmore were both in the Atholl Highlanders' set.

MANCHOUKUO LEGAL SYSTEM

To Be Modernized With The Assistance Of Japan

Changchun, June 10.

Among the many questions which are being discussed in the Empire of Manchoukuo at the present moment, are those of reform of the Courts and the question of the abolition of extra-territoriality, therefore a statement made by Mr. Furuta, Chief of the Bureau of General Affairs of the Ministry of Justice in this city, is of great interest.

In an interview given by him to several Harbin pressmen he said that from the translations of Russian papers given to him, much had been written regarding the introduction of reforms in the Courts at a near date but these press statements were not absolutely correct. "I request," said he, "that you publish this interview in full, and thus put an end to the various rumours published regarding the Courts of this country."

Law Revision

The main question which is occupying the attention of the Ministry of Justice of the Manchou Empire is the revision of all existing laws in the territory of Manchoukuo. Those laws which have been and are at present being put in force by the local courts, are not our laws. Handed down from the former authorities, they defend the ideas that were carried out by the former government.

However, the Empire of Manchoukuo is constructed on other foundations and ideas, consequently the laws of the country must be correspondingly altered. This is the question with which we are at present mainly occupied. The new laws must be constructed and based on the principles of the basic laws of the Manchou Empire proclaimed on March 1.

"The Code of Punishments will also be altered. Our Legislative Chamber is at present engaged in these questions, on the settlement of which all other reforms depend. Until the introduction of the new laws, there is nothing to be said regarding radical reforms of the breaking up of the legal apparatus."

Abolition of Extraterritoriality

"The next question is that of extraterritorial rights. We should like to cancel the special rights which foreigners at present possess in the territory of Manchoukuo, but this, however, is not such a simple affair, depending very much on the introduction of new laws. When all will be under the Government laws of the Manchou Empire, and alterations have been made in legal procedure, the abolition of extra-territorial rights may be expected."

"This is, however, very complicated work and it is quite impossible to fix any time limit. In any case, in my opinion, the introduction of new laws and the abolition of extra-territoriality, cannot be expected in less than five to six years."

"The Harbin Courts, in comparison to the courts in other towns, are in an excellent state, and, therefore, there is no need to hurry with them. It is our intention to improve the courts at other points, and then take up Harbin."

Japanese Legal Aid

"Improvements in the working of Manchoukuo Courts will be effected by inviting a large number of Japanese judges, procurators and officials. If there are any Manchou judges who have not sufficient legal knowledge, they will be quickly instructed in their duties, and it is for this purpose that Japanese legal men are being invited. The Courts of Harbin and Pingshiang will be amalgamated, as at present this is a great inconvenience."

"We intend to improve and lighten the regime of prisons in general, but that of Harbin will not be touched at present, as according to our information, the prisons there are in perfect order."

BRITISH BROADCASTING CORPORATION

Empire News From Empire Transmitter, Daventry

A recital by Juliette Godby (soprano) and Bruno Ralkin (pianoforte) will be heard by listeners to Transmission 3 on Wednesday, July 4, at 5.20 G.M.T.

Miss Godby, who was born in Johannesburg, South Africa, studied in London and Italy. She has sung with several English orchestras, has played small parts and understudied leads in nearly all of Sir Nigel Playfair's operettas—"La Vie Parisienne," "Duenna" and "Tantivy Towers" and others. She recently toured South Africa (Cape Province) and gave concerts there.

Mr. Ralkin comes from Pretoria, South Africa. His first public appearance as soloist was made in the packed town hall of Pretoria when he was nine years old. Following tuition from Sydney Rosenbloom, the well-known composer and pianist, Ralkin's parents were urged upon to send their son to Europe to complete his studies. He did so under Professor Robert Teichmüller in Leipzig and was presented with the much coveted Franz von Holstein Stipendium of the State Conservatoire. He frequently played at the important Conservatoire Concerts. He is now the proud possessor of a photograph of his professor dedicated to "The South African wonder child at the piano."

Leslie England will give a pianoforte recital in Transmission 4 on Sunday, July 1, at 8.45 G.M.T. Born in Barrow-in-Furness in 1902, he is one of the stalwarts of the North of England in the friendly, but never-ending, dispute about which part of England produces the best musicians. He was only four when he began to play the pianoforte with his father as his first teacher. Mark Hambourg and Paderewski were so impressed when they heard him play that they both strongly encouraged him to pursue his studies further and to adopt the strenuous career of a solo pianist. His debut was an unusually successful one and for some years he has been recognised as one of the most brilliant of contemporary English pianists. He has played repeatedly at the Promenade Concerts and with most of the leading orchestras throughout Britain, as well as giving many recitals. Leslie England made two concert tours of South Africa.

Listeners to Transmission 4 on Monday, July 2, will hear "Honey-moon in Paris," a musical comedy, the book of which has been written by Cecil Lewis with lyrics and music by Austen Croom Johnson. This will be broadcast at 7.00 G.M.T.

"Honeymoon in Paris" is described as a diversion for a summer evening, the story of which is artificial and gay and concerns a finishing school in Paris and a young English nobleman masquerading as a professor, with amusing complications and of course, a happy ending. It will be produced by Cecil Lewis.

A. J. Alan, the mystery storyteller in B.B.C. programmes, is to make one of his rather infrequent appearances before the microphone on Tuesday, July 3. Listeners to Transmission 4 at 9.05 G.M.T. will hear him broadcast a story entitled, "Henry." Although A. J. Alan has a long acquaintance with the microphone and listeners know that this is not his real name, his identity has never been discovered and every time he broadcasts many guesses are put forward by listeners as to whom he really is.

During the summer months various relays from a number of popular Scottish seaside resorts, of outstanding concert parties will be given in B.B.C. programmes. One of these will be radiated to the Empire through Transmission 4 on Thursday, July 5, at 6.20 G.M.T. This will be given by Harry Gordon's Concert Party, which delights audiences at the Beach Pavilion, Aberdeen, and which is one of the best-known and entertaining of its kind. Harry Gordon has been associated with the Beach Pavilion for many years, during part of which he has been proprietor. In addition to managing and producing the shows, Harry himself is principal comedian and has a repertoire of over two hundred original songs, all of which have been presented at the Pavilion for the first time. This year his company includes Raymond Newell (baritone), Vera (soprano), Caprice Proud (comedianne), Vine More and Nevard in happy songs at the piano, four John Tiller Girls, Jack Beattie, Jack Holden and Alice Stephenson.

Harry Gordon not only knows how to entertain a visual audience, but also his vast unseen audience, having made a careful study of wireless technique. His knowledge of north-east dialect, mannerisms and humour is well-nigh perfect and he has the faculty of putting all this over without using unduly difficult dialect words.

On Friday, July 6, at 7.00 G.M.T., three short plays, which will be produced by Martyn C. Webster, will be relayed in Empire programmes through Transmission 4 from a Birmingham studio. The first of these will be "The Second Best Bed" or "The Truth about Shakespeare" by A. A. Thomson. The characters in this play will be Shakespeare, played by Stuart Vinden; Anne, played by Elizabeth Jenkins, and Uncle Polonius, a butcher and the typical rich relation, played by John Lang.

"Thumb Prints," by Cedric Wallis, is the second of this group. The characters portrayed will be those of a married couple, played by Stuart Vinden and Elizabeth Jenkins and a maid, played by Constance Needham. The author has taken a simple situation—a married couple dismissing a maid; and this will be treated, as it were, by William Shakespeare; secondly, by Oscar Wilde; and thirdly by Anton Tchekov. He does not promise that listeners will detect in this work the hand of each of these masters, but hopes that at least a thumb print will be apparent.

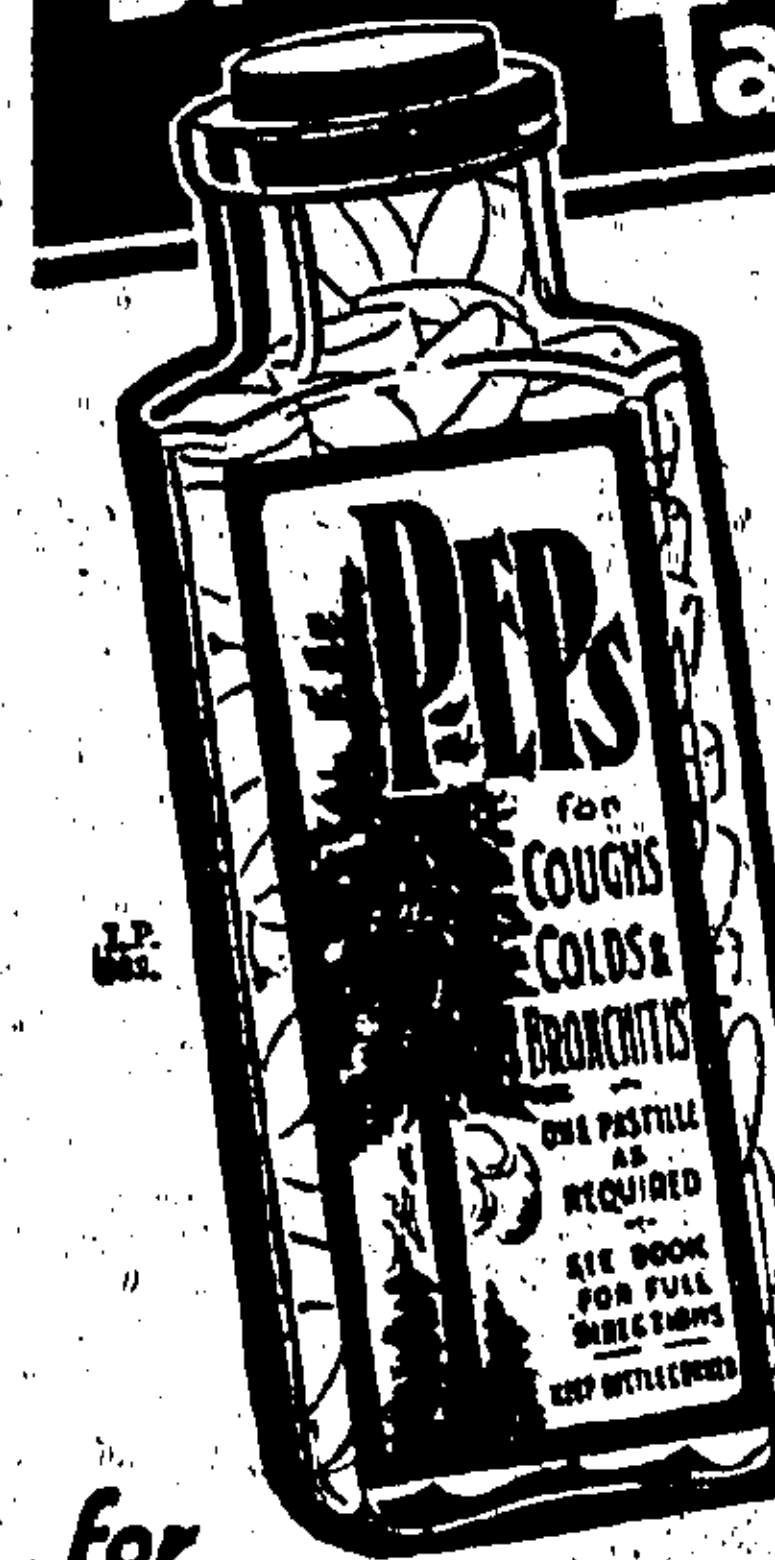

The title of the concluding play is, "A Storm in a Breakfast Cup," which is by Eliot Crawshaw-Williams, author of five grand guinea plays. The story concerns a breakfast table tiff between a husband and wife over the opening of each others letters. The characters will be a young couple played by Stuart Vinden and Elizabeth Jenkins, and a family butler, played by John Lang.

The first programme to be produced by Max Kester since he rejoined the staff of the B.B.C. a month ago will be heard by listeners to Transmission 4 on Saturday, July 7, at 8.15 G.M.T. This will be "Sketch Book," which will consist of five or six brief sketches ranging from an out-and-out thriller to Bert Coote in his comedy sketch "The Punter's Friend." The idea of "Sketch Book" as Max Kester calls them, in black and white and the two pianists will not play jazz. Entertainers specially arranged for this broadcast will be played by them. In addition to producing "Sketch Book," Max Kester has written one of the sketches. This is entitled, "The Interview," and has been written round a film star, who has her jewels stolen by a crook who poses as a newspaper interviewer. The star, who fills this part will require to be able to speak a language, which is not generally known and the B.B.C. is on the outlook for such an artist.

Max Kester was for four years at the B.B.C.'s Leeds Station and left in 1928 to take up an appointment with one of the large gramophone companies. While there he was responsible for several records which were hits on B.B.C. programmes. The principal of these was "In Town All Night," which listeners will readily appreciate bears a direct association with the B.B.C.'s weekly feature programme, "In Town To-night." "Pancake Tuesday" was another of these recordings which had an enormous sale throughout the Empire.

Several British organists will be heard in a gramophone record programme to be broadcast in Transmission 5 on Sunday, July 1, at 1.45 G.M.T. One of these is Dr. W. G. Alcock who will be heard playing Lemmen's "Fanfare."

The Wonderful Breathe-able Tablets

Doctors & Physicians Throughout The World Recommend PEPS.

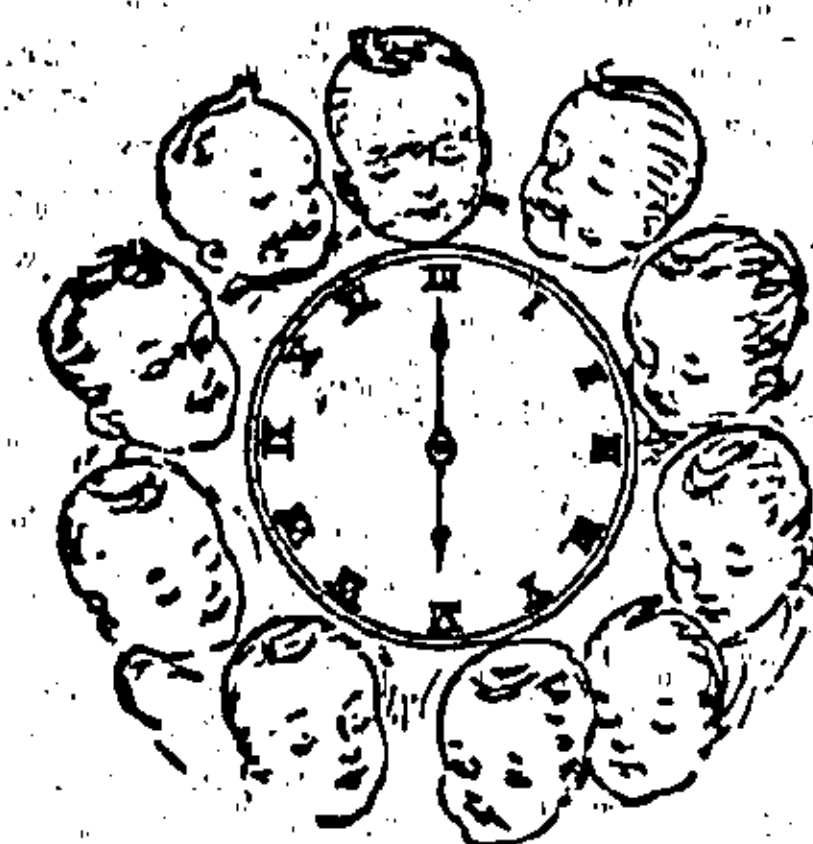

SPECIALLY compounded to deal with the throat, chest and lung dangers of our climate, Peps are a unique and most valuable medicine.

When dissolved in the mouth, Peps tablets give off powerful medicinal fumes, which are breathed direct into the lungs. Peps have an immediate soothing and healing action on the delicate linings of the throat and air-passages. Peps cut choking phlegm and clear the bronchials. They relieve the chest and stop the most troublesome cough. Take Peps every day. They will protect you against sudden colds, night chills, sore throat, bronchitis and other chest and lung dangers.

EVERY PEPS TABLET IS SILVER-WRAPPED.

PEPS are sold in handy sealed bottles, of chemists and medicine stores every where. Full directions enclosed in every package.

GOOD ACTING

By All Concerned

There is a very good programme at the Queen's Theatre. The two short pieces are one operatic and one detective. The operatic is the story of Fifi the girl in the fashion shop who falls in love with a noble youth. The music and singing is excellent. The detective is a story of a murder and how the culprit was discovered without any finger marks upon the weapon.

"Female," starring Ruth Chatterton is a very good acting. The story is a bit concentrated, but could not be very well otherwise with the character that has to be shown. She represents a domineering woman looking for a man who will treat her as a woman. Tired of the life she is leading as the head of a large motor factory, where every employee is servile, she leaves a party and goes off into the city. In the city she becomes the pick-up of a man who does not take pick-ups home. At this stage begins the romance, where the forceful woman is finally put in her proper place by the man she is to marry.

The acting is very good including that of the minor parts, which offer some amusing moments.

EVER IN MY HEART

At The Alhambra

Staged against a background of family tradition and international strife, "Ever in My Heart" starring Barbara Stanwyck and Otto Kruger, is one of the finest dramas ever to be shown in Hong Kong.

Brilliant acting by Barbara Stanwyck and Otto Kruger and excellent backing up in the supporting cast have made this picture one to be remembered and one which will undoubtedly put both Miss Stanwyck and Mr. Kruger among the leading players of the talkie stage.

The story centres round a brilliant young German professor who steps into a love match and marries the girl much against the family's wishes, the family having a revered name for over 300 years and connected with the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers.

The German adopts American citizenship but when the war breaks out and the newspapers make much of the atrocities alleged to have been perpetrated by Germans, he loses his seat at the College and in addition is shunned by his former American friends. Realising the hopelessness of carrying on in the face of over-numbering odds, Otto Kruger sends his American wife back to her own people, and on the pretence of joining her in a week's time, leaves her a note with the explanation that he is returning to fight for his own people.

The couple are divorced but they meet again in a cantonment where Barbara Stanwyck discovers her former husband in the American lines in the role of a spy. Her love for him returns and discounting all danger she saves him from the Military Police.

The film is undoubtedly one of the best productions to be shown locally. The shorts preceding the feature film are both interesting and amusing and go towards making the programme a thoroughly enjoyable one.

GOOD DAME

Sylvia Sidney At Her Best

Marion Gering, Paramount director, who just completed "Good Dame," the B. P. Schulberg Paramount picture, co-starring Sylvia Sidney and Fredric March, now playing at the King's Theatre, declares that a "gag" played on him by a friend, helped him attain the theatrical success that led him into motion pictures.

"When I decided to come to the United States, some friends in Berlin gave me a letter of introduction to an influential man in Milwaukee, supposed to be an important stage producer," said Gering.

"You can imagine my chagrin when I found he was nothing but a manager of a second rate burlesque."

Maintaining a sense of humour, he accepted temporary defeat with a grin and worked his way to the top as a stage director in Chicago.

When, however, New York still refused to entrust first-rate plays in his hands, he gambled his savings and bought a play called "Skidding." He staged and produced it. For more than a year it was a reigning hit.

Motion picture companies sought his services. Paramount won him, brought him to Hollywood on a long term contract, and he has made such screen hits as "Ladies of the Big House," "Merrily We Go To Hell," "Madame Butterfly" and "Jennifer Gerhardt."

"Good Dame," a dramatic romance with plenty of laughs, was written by William Lipman. It is a story of a really "good" girl who meets a "not-so-bad" boy. Accustomed to handling his women as he wants, this chap is struck when he meets one who won't be handled. Then love slips in, and a happy entertaining climax is the result.

"ANN VICKERS"

Personal Triumph
in Irene Dunne

With the eyes of the film world on beautiful Irene Dunne in the role of "Ann Vickers" in the picture of that title, the triumph which was anticipated when she was so cast has now become a reality.

Reports from all theatres sectors are that Miss Dunne has the strongest and most dramatic role of her career. As "Ann Vickers" she is the modern minded girl who is brilliant enough to win success after love and romance are denied her. She is the woman of the world who becomes the more bewildered by the biological urge with every higher step in her career. She is the slave of ambition and a prisoner of love.

Wooded by men in leading stations in society, disillusioned in her efforts at reforms, she finds satisfying love only as the years crowd in on her and old enemies seek her downfall.

Miss Dunne is rated in this character calling for physical charm and a bit of devilry combined with the culture which will enable her to win laurels in the upper strata of society.

The "Ann Vickers" portrayal incidentally calls for extensive wardrobes, some twenty-two in all, ranging from fashionable creations to the garb of a penitentiary executive.

Versatility and a keen judgment of dramatic values, possessed by Miss Dunne, puts her in command of the characterization throughout. Many critics have given her the highest praise in her brilliant career for the portrayal of the most discussed heroine in modern fiction.

Walter Huston is co-starred with Miss Dunne in the RKO-Radio Pictures' scoop of the century, the entire film world having been hot on the trail of the screen rights

AFTERNOON

With every picture produced in Hollywood there is a "search" of some sort or another.

But Russell Pierce, head of Paramount's property department, reported the strangest one during the filming of "One Sunday Afternoon," coming on Tuesday at the King's Theatre. Gary Cooper is starring in this picture, with Fay Wray, Frances Fuller and Neil Hamilton, featured.

"One Sunday Afternoon" was directed by Stephen Roberts, one of Paramount's youngest directors. In addition to the featured players listed above, you'll see Roscoe Karns, Sam Hardy, Jane Darwell and Frank Sheridan.

MEN IN WHITE

A Tremendous Success

"Men in White," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production co-starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, opening to-morrow at the Queen's is an absorbing drama based on the stage play by Sidney Kingsley still running in New York at the Broadhurst Theatre.

It was late last September that two organizations known as the Group Theatre and Sidney Harmon and James R. Ullman produced this drama of passions in and around a great metropolis hospital. The reception accorded the production was immediate and overwhelming. Burns Mantle, of the Daily News, bestowed the four-star rating on the play, a distinction which has been granted to only one other play this season. Robert Garland, of the World-Telegram put the drama at the top of his list of the ten best plays of 1933. And people on all sides began to talk of it as the natural candidate for the Pulitzer Prize.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, desirous of putting into screen form a drama so original and so charged with elemental emotions as this story of a young interne and his swaying between love and duty, promptly purchased the play and engaged Gable and Miss Loy for the leading roles. Their plans were to present their own production as soon as possible.

But the very thing that everyone had anticipated prevented them from doing so: "Men in White" as a stage play continued to be so successful in New York and to draw such large and enthusiastic houses that it would be unjust to either the play or the film to offer the picture simultaneously to the public.

It is estimated that the stage production, now in its seventh triumphant month, will continue

CHARLIE CHAN AGAIN!

To-morrow At The Oriental

"Charlie Chan's Greatest Case" depicting the most recent adventures of that bland Chinese detective from Hawaii is showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

Warner Oland, famous for the portrayal of Charlie Chan in past screen successes, again has the role of the philosophizing policeman who finds clues where others deem to tread.

This latest story takes Charlie Chan over the most difficult trail of crime and clues it has ever been his experience to "tread." Stopped at every point by closed mouths and fearful associations, Chan falls back on his mellow philosophy to the solution of a crime that has the police backed against a wall. In his suave kindly manner Chan proves himself more than ever to be a man of iron will and biting intellect.

The leading feminine role is in the hands of Heather Angel, beautiful newcomer to the screen. The supporting cast, headed by Roger Imhoff and John Warburton, is the most notable ever assembled for a Charlie Chan film. It has Walter Byron, Ivan Simpson, Virginia Cherrill, Francis Ford, Robert Warwick, Frank Mc Glynn, Clara Blandick, Claude King, William Stack, Gloria Roy and Cornelius Keefe.

well into the late Spring. Accordingly, "Men in White" is a film to be seen during April and May only by those living in other cities. New York will have to wait until early June before it can witness the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen realization of the stage hit at the Broadhurst.

ECHOES OF 1861

30—The Shanghai Mail

The Emeu arrived with the Shanghai mails yesterday morning, bringing dates to the 19th instant. The latest from Hankow was to the 8th inst. per Fire Dart. From Teentsin no later advices had been received than those communicated last mail. From Nagasaki the dates reached to the 8th inst. and from Kanagawa to the 28th ult. per steamer Scotland.

Foreigners who have visited Hankow describe it as a place possessing immense natural capacities for trade. The people are most friendly towards foreigners and are really desirous of extending commercial intercourse. The imperial soldiery however, strange to say are decidedly inimical, and view with a repellent jealous eye the progress of affairs, which they deem as encroachments. The rebels in the neighbourhood are said to be miserable body, devoid of both arms and clothes—in fact a mere refuse rabble, and yet the people are such sheep as to deem them formidable and to fly from them.

The steamers Governor General and Fire Dart had returned from Hankow, laden with oil, paper and medicines. They brought no teas, though it is expected that the new crop would soon arrive in abundance. The parties interested averred that trade was bad, the demand for imports small, and that most of the goods they had taken up had been stored. This, however, has the appearance of being "fishermen's luck," for there was a great desire manifested on the part of shippers to send goods to Hankow. The barque Mona had been dispatched thither with a large amount of treasure in tow of a steamer. Both the Governor General and the Fire Dart were being hurried back again and were taking a considerable quantity of Manchester Goods. The str. Scotland had been chartered for Hankow and back for the sum of Tls. 20,000. The steamer Rajah had been purchased from the P. and O. Company for the same trade. The Dutch ship F. B. van Dambenoy had been laid on, but it did not appear how she was to reach there, as no steamer appeared to be available to tow her, and proceeding without such aid was deemed impossible. The expectations entertained regarding the field for the employment of steam upon the Yangtze, seem indeed on the point of realization.

The Ly-ee-moon had gone to Teentsin. A large business was being transacted for that quarter. The junk owners were in great tribulation, their eyes having been opened to the fact that the carrying trade by sea would soon be entirely lost to them.

As previously advised, the Taping Rebels had taken Chapoo, and were threatening Hangchow and Ningpo. Adm. Hope had, it is stated on good authority, limited to the rebel Chiefs, that he should interfere if any attempt were made to take the latter. The people at Shanghai had ceased thinking about the rebels in the immediate vicinity, deeming foreign intervention both certain and efficacious.

Although most of the towns in the silk districts had been either sacked or burnt, still the Country people were busy with the coming year, which is likely after all to be a fair average one.

At Nagasaki business in imports was rather dull, with a limited demand for manufactures. There were very few sales being made for Cash, but principally in barter for Teas, Silk, Lumber, Oil and other produce for the China market. Between the 10th Feb. and 18th May, no less than thirty one foreign vessels had arrived at Nagasaki from Shanghai.

CHARGE OF MURDER

Attack On A Woman

Evidence on the attack and subsequent stabbing of one of the principal witnesses in the case in which Cheung Chak is charged with the murder of Wong Sui Mul, a Chinese woman of 29, was recorded at the resumed hearing before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday.

Mr. W. J. Lockhart Smith, Assistant Crown Solicitor is appearing on behalf of the Crown, while the accused is unrepresented.

Cho Lin, amah, employed at No. 1, Wong Cheuk Street, second floor said that on June 6 at about 1 p.m. she was there with Wong Sui Mul, the deceased and other women.

Witness was in the front sitting room when Ho Sai Yau, one of those present, called her and told her that someone was wanting to inspect the empty premises in Ailu Street. Witness approached Ho Sai Yau who was standing at the door leading out into the hall, and there witness saw the defendant standing outside the iron grill.

Ho Sai Yau then told the defendant to go downstairs and she would follow. The defendant put one foot on a lower step, but still faced the door. As Ho Sai Yau opened the grill, he helped to open it by grasping the sliding bar with his hands and then entered.

"He struck me in the right eye with his closed fist and then took a key away from my hand. The blow to my eye caused me to fall and I didn't remember anything else. On regaining my senses I went downstairs into the street where I saw a crowd gathered round the still form of Wong Sui Mul. I was then attracted by another crowd and on approaching saw that the defendant had been detained. Apposed was dressed in black as he is now.

Accused: I don't know them, and I have no grudge against them so why should I do these things.

Deceased's Sister
Wong So, said she was the sister of Wong Sui Mul, deceased and lived with the latter at No. 1 Wong Cheuk Street. On June 6 witness

CEMENT WORKS OPEN AGAIN

One Kilm In Operation

The works of the Green Island Cement Company at Hok On have recommenced operation but only one of the two kilns is at work.

It will be recalled that the Chairman of the Company's Board of Directors, Mr. J. Scott Harston, intimated at the recent annual meeting of the Company that it was hoped that work would shortly be resumed.

was with deceased on the second floor of the premises.

"I heard Ho Sai Yau talking to a man and the next thing I knew was that Wong Sui Mul was being chased across the sitting room. I called out 'What's the matter?' but was knocked down by the defendant who was dressed in black. Wong Sui Mul disappeared onto the verandah and that was the last time I saw her alive. I saw the man holding something white and sharp in his right hand and which was responsible for two cuts on my right hand between the thumb and the small index finger.

Chu Sze, another woman, stated that, on June 6 just after 1 p.m. witness was asleep in her cubicle when she heard shouts of "robbers, save life." She jumped up from her bed clad in a white jacket and pushing the curtain aside saw three men standing outside the iron grill.

"I was frightened so I backed away and let the curtain down. A few seconds later I gathered up enough courage to leave the cubicle and met the defendant coming from the direction of the passage. He was dressed in black and immediately caught hold of my right hand and demanded a key from me. I told him that I had none and he then stabbed me in the right side with a sharp pointed instrument.

Mr. Lockhart Smith producing the jacket which witness was wearing at the time said, "I'm sorry Your Worship but some overzealous person has apparently washed this garment at the Kowloon Hospital which however, still shows signs of blood and the rent caused by the instrument."

NEWS FROM PORTUGAL

Colonial Exhibition At Oporto

The Colonial Exhibition at Oporto was recently inaugurated by H.E. the President of the Portuguese Republic, General Carmona, the Premier Dr. Salazar and other Ministers.

Representative of all Colonies were present and Macao has also sent a delegation which included local Chinese singers and musicians and some local merchants who will be attached to the Macao Pavilion.

The spacious grounds of the Crystal Palace are the venue of thousands who have visited the Exhibition which has been a complete success.

African troops from Mozambique have been the centre of great attraction and the native villages, and the pavilions of the various colonies have also attracted great numbers.

The Industrial Palace displaying goods from the colonies has contributed towards a potential enlightenment on the colonial products. It is anticipated that the links connecting the colonial and the Home markets will be further strengthened through the exhibition.

THE PRESIDENT OF PORTUGAL HONOURED

The Brazilian Ambassador at Lisbon on instructions from his Government has awarded the Grand-Cross of the Order of "Cruzeiro" to General Carmona for his influence towards the furtherance of Portuguese-Brazilian relations.

TAXATION SYSTEMS

Dr. Fernando Emilio da Silva who recently delivered an important lecture at Paris on the Portuguese Finances was invited by the "Congress of French Economists" to participate in the meetings of the Congress. As Dr. Silva could not be present at the meetings the Congress invited him to send a communication on the present Portuguese Taxation System which Dr. da Silva did. It being delivered to the Congress and published in the special Report of the proceedings.

The clear exposition of the taxation now in force in Portugal was greatly appreciated by the economists.

ELECTRIFICATION OF RAILWAYS

The development of the electrification of the country is progressing rapidly and the Public Works Secretary has been busy engaged in studying the Reports submitted by various Committees concerning the electrification of Railways and lighting of the Country. Extensive works on these lines are being considered and studied and it is expected that they will mature before long. This is also part of the public works being carried out to relieve unemployment which, however, in Portugal is a very minor problem.

GERARD BAUER

This well-known French journalist, who has been visiting Portugal has sent to the French Press interesting articles concerning Portugal and the state of its administration.

The re-organization of the Portuguese Finances and the general improvement of the country have attracted wide attention and frequent visits of writers and journalists from different countries have been noticed lately.

PORTUGUESE NAVY

Two more new submarines and one Cruiser were recently launched in England for the Portuguese Navy. H.E. the Portuguese Ambassador in London, Dr. Ulrich was present at the ceremony which was followed by a luncheon given by Messrs. Vickers to the Portuguese Ambassador and Naval Mission in England.

PORTUGUESE ARMY

Following the re-organization of the Navy the Portuguese Government is now embarking on an extensive re-organization of the Army and the Estimates include quite a substantial sum for this effect. This means another instance of "Dr. Salazar's policy who gradually is improving all sections of the Government Administration.

Chan King, said he was a working partner in the Hon. Hing Noodle Shop of No. 35 Prince Edward Road. He knew the accused who had been in the employment at one time as a cook. The accused had remained for May 12 and had been paid over $28. Witness had not seen the accused since that date as the latter had removed all his belongings. Further hearing was adjourned until Tuesday afternoon.

CLAIM AGAINST A GUARANTOR

Sequel To A Deal In Wolfram

Before the Chief Justice, his Honour Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor yesterday, an ex parte claim by Messrs. J. M. da Rocha & Company of Hong Kong against Mr. Tong Shiu Lun for a total sum of $9,876.76 was heard.

Mr. Leo D'Almada, a Castro junior, instructed by Mr. E. J. Armstrong of Messrs. Deacons was for the plaintiff.

The claim was for $7,676.76 damages for breach of contract for the sale and purchase of Wolfram ore between the plaintiffs as buyers and the Po Hing Yuen firm of Canton as sellers. The defendant guaranteed the contract. The remaining $2,000 represented an unrecovered portion of a deposit made in connection with the contract.

Evidence was given by Mr. E. P. H. Lang, Registrar, as to service of Notice of Trial, and also by two solicitor's clerk.

Mr. R. M. da Rocha manager in 1929 of the firm of J. M. da Rocha & Co., gave evidence as to the making of the contract, which he produced to the Court. He also produced a statement of accounts drawn from the books of his company showing the purchases which he had had to make against the contract.

His Lordship caused the case to be adjourned for the production of the books in which the original entries were made. He also stated that the contract produced contained no suggestion that the defendant guaranteed anything at all in connection with the deposit of $5,000 of which $3,000 had been recovered.

Mr. D'Almada replied that if the defendant guaranteed anything at all it was the whole contract. The case was adjourned until Tuesday morning.

PORTUGUESE BANISHED

For returning from banishment, Anstacio dos Remedios Marques, a Portuguese, was yesterday sentenced to ten months' hard labour. It will be recalled that the defendant had previously been convicted of robbery by two or more. Defendant and a Japanese robbed a woman, Seiji Nishio, who resided at No. 58 Hapthong Road, on the night of January 5, 1931. They got away with $119 in money and while the defendant was arrested the Japanese was never found.

Remedios was banished for 10 years in 1932.

THEFT FROM SHOP

Three weeks' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy on Leung Ho aged 28, who pleaded guilty to stealing $9 copper cents from the Sun Hing Grocery, No. 99 Jubilee Street. Detective-Sergeant Goodwin said at 1.15 p.m. on Thursday, defendant walked into the shop and while the salesman was attending a customer, snatched a tin box which contained the money. He was chased by the shop master and a foh and was intercepted by a detective.

A CANTON THEFT

The theft of fifteen yards of silk from the Sincere Company, Canton, was traced to a Chinese who was arrested when attempting to pawn the silk in the Yuen Hing Pawnshop, Hong Kong. Brought before Mr. Macfadyen, the man, Man Chung, 23, unemployed pleaded guilty. Sub-Inspector J. Dredge stated that when questioned by a detective, defendant frankly admitted he had stolen the silk. A fine of $30, or three weeks' hard labour, was imposed.

Admitting a charge of stealing a leather wallet containing $18.20, a pickpocket was sent to prison for two months by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Police Court yesterday. Sub-Inspector Dredge said complainant Li Chan, an accountant of No. 530 Castle Peak Road, was in Wing Lok Street watching a Chinese doctor demonstrating his skill and offering to cure people's ills for nothing. The defendant, standing close by, took the wallet from the complainant's pocket.

Chau Pung, a coolie, was fined $15 or three weeks by Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday for making a nuisance of himself outside the Kowloon Godowns. It was stated that as a passenger was coming off a ship, defendant forcibly snatched a suitcase from him despite the fact that he was told that his services were not required.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

Yesterday being "Traffic Day" at Central Magistracy, quite a number of traffic offenders were brought before Mr. Hamilton.

Mrs. H. Sanders was cautioned for leaving her car unattended in Queen's Road Central, near the China Emporium on June 19.

Mr. R. K. Valentine, of Messrs. Dodwell & Co., was summoned for the same offence in the same place, but on being informed that it was Mrs. Valentine who drove the car, Mr. Hamilton said, he would strike out the summons and issue a new one against her instead.

Mrs. Valentine, however, agreed to admit the offence and was cautioned.

Mr. Hamilton said this apparently Mrs. Valentine had handed the Sergeant her husband's license instead of her own.

Sir William Shenton's Chauffeur

For driving at 28 miles an hour in Whitefield Street, a controlled area, Miguel Javier, driver to Sir William Shenton, was cautioned.

Defendant said that the place was absolutely clear as it was after midnight, and 28 miles an hour was not very fast although it would be so in the daytime.

His Worship remarked that the speed in a control area was ten miles an hour and whether it was mid-night or mid-day, defendant had got to remember that fact.

Defendant said he was driving Miss Shenton home after a party.

Sequel to Accident

When Lam Yu Ping, driver of a private car was summoned for failing to have his brakes in efficient and good working order, and allowing the car to be on the road with inefficient brakes, Traffic Sergeant McInnis stated defendant met with an accident in Queen's Road Central as the result of which a man was now lying seriously injured in hospital and was not expected to live.

Inspector Nicol said that he was informed by Dr. Thomas that the man would die within a month as he had received serious injuries to his spine.

Mr. Hamilton accordingly adjourned the summons "sine die." Summoned on three counts of dangerous driving, soliciting and failing to stop, Sung Koon Fook, driver of a public car, was fined in all $30 or 28 days' hard labour.

It was stated that defendant was seen soliciting outside the Tai Ping Theatre. While doing so he suddenly swung out from behind a bus and nearly collided with a car coming in the opposite direction.

MOTORIST FINED

An imposing fine of $50 on Mr. E. Greyer of Messrs. Sander Weiler & Co., yesterday for dangerous driving, Mr. E. W. Hamilton warned the defendant that any further offence of a like character would be met with drastic treatment.

Mr. Greyer was also convicted of having failed to drive with due care and caution in Shek-O Road.

The Magistrate said he had visited the scene of the alleged passing of seven cars by the defendant. It happened that the Magistrate's car was held up by another car considerably less powerful, but he was not able to pass the other car with safety. From what he knew of the road there were only two or three places in which a car could pass another with safety. He thought that if Mr. Greyer had driven for twenty five years without an accident, that the defendant must have driven on much safer roads than those in the Colony and with amazing luck!

The second summons was dismissed with a caution.

It will be recalled that Mr. L. H. V. Booth, Director of Criminal Intelligence, the complainant in the first summons, gave evidence on Thursday that half-a-mile from the Gap, defendant overtook his car and another car ahead on a blind corner, and cut into a stream of about six cars. Defendant continued in the stream of cars, and when he came to the Gap itself he cut over to the right hand side of the road to overtake again on a completely blind corner.

How True

A novelist who writes stories that are perhaps too good to be "best sellers" was asked by a little girl the meaning of the word penny. "Penny," my child, was the answer, "means the wages of the pen."

THE APPRECIATED DOLLAR

Recently the United States has heard much about the depreciated dollar, and many individuals have advised very strongly against allowing debtors to make payments with a 60-cent dollar. In most monetary transactions, however, the dollar is of more value than it was in the 1920's. It is an acknowledged fact that the value or purchasing power of the dollar varies inversely to changes in the general price level, and the price level is obviously an omnibus concept, including as it does the prices of goods, labour, foreign exchange and so on. It was between 1929 and January 1933 that most of these prices fell rapidly and this was not only a source of much embarrassment and distress, but also an important factor in contributing to the depression. Then between January 1933 and January 1934, prices rose, but with a few exceptions they did not rise as much as they had fallen in the preceding four years. For instance, if we compared the 1934 dollar with the 1929 one, instead of with the hopelessly depreciated coin of 1933, what do we find? The gold value of the dollar is less by four-tenths but the "external" value of the dollar has not changed to any very great extent. The dollar will buy fewer French francs, Swiss francs and Dutch guilders; it will fetch about the same number of English pounds and Canadian dollars while so far as the Japanese yen, Argentine pesos and Shanghai tael are concerned, it will probably buy more of these. Only to a very few Americans is the gold value of the dollar of any importance. The "external" value is of greater importance, but to most Americans, the "internal" value of the dollar, or what it is worth in the United States, has much the greater importance. In this respect, it must be gratifying to most people in America that the "internal" value of the dollar is greater than that of the 1929 dollar. It will buy for them more food, clothing, wheat, cotton, corn and labour. Indeed, it will buy more of most things.

Creditors used to insert the "gold clause" into contracts in order to prevent their being paid with depreciated dollars. The abrogation of the "gold clause" has injured, of course, any creditor who wished to buy gold with repaid money. But if he wants to buy something else, he will probably find that he is being repaid in appreciated dollars. In the last year the frightful appreciation of the dollar has been checked and a slight depreciation has occurred. But the dollar is still more valuable than it was in 1929. There need be no cause for crying havoc unless and until the value of the dollar declines very much more than it has in the last year.

FATAL MOTOR ACCIDENT

Girl of Fourteen Killed

According to a Police report last night, a girl of fourteen was fatally injured in a motor accident which occurred at 5 p.m. yesterday near the Yaumatei Railway station. The driver of lorry 1201, in making his report to the authorities stated that he was driving along the road when a little child appeared in front of the lorry. To avoid the child, the driver swerved sharply to the left and ran into two girls (aged 14 and 2 respectively) who were sitting on the kerb. Both the children were immediately rushed to hospital. The smaller one was not detained, but the elder girl was in a serious state and she passed away three hours after admission.

OBITUARY

Mr. Lo Cheung Shiu

It is with deep regret that we have to record the death of Mr. Lo Cheung Shiu, J.P., which occurred at his residence, 62, Conduit Road, last night.

Mr. Lo, who was one of the best known and most highly respected Chinese residents of the Colony, was the father of Messrs. M. K. M.W., M.H., and Horace Lo, all of whom are themselves popular members of the Chinese community.

Sixty-six years of age, Mr. Lo had been ill for the past six weeks and although his death was not unexpected, it nevertheless came as a great shock to a large number of friends. He was for many years proprietor of Jardine's and was a member of the Permanent Board of Directors of the Tung Wah Hospital, and also a member of the Permanent Board of Directors of the Po Leung Kuk. He was also the vice chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and also served on the executive committee of that institution for many years. He was a member of the Board of Directors of The China Light & Power Co., Ltd. and also of the Hong Kong Engineering & Construction Co., Ltd., and was a partner of the Tai Yau Bank one of the best known Chinese banks in the Colony.

Although the late Mr. Lo retired from business life in 1920, he kept up a very active interest in public life and was ever ready to lend his sympathetic help in anything that was to the good of the community in general. In recognition of his services to the community, he was awarded a Certificate of Honour in 1930 and it was unanimously recognised as an honour well merited.

One of Mr. Lo's chief hobbies was reading, and his library was the object of much admiration. He also took a keen interest in racing and gardening, while sport of any nature always found his ready support. He was also one of the few patrons of the Chinese Recreation Club.

Besides his sons, the late Mr. Lo leaves five daughters—Mrs. Ho Leung, Mrs. Ho Ki, Mrs. Choa, Mrs. Litton and Mrs. Chuan—to mourn his loss and to the family the deep sympathy of a large circle of friends is extended.

No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral but it is believed that it will take place on Sunday.

OLD WARRIOR PASSES

At Age of 160

Istanbul, June 29. The very slender hopes entertained for the recovery of Zoro Agha, reputed to be the world's oldest living person, who is very ill in hospital last Monday have not been fulfilled. At that time his 88-year-old daughter and his eleven-year-old wife were at his bedside. Zoro Agha passed away to-day. He was reputed to be 160 years old, and was married twelve times. He had fought against the French under Napoleon.—Reuter.

BRITISH SHIPPING

London, June 28. While the main feature of the Government scheme to help British shipping is the granting of financial guarantees for the construction of new merchant ships on the condition that three old vessels are scrapped for every new one, it is learned that there are also proposals for limited subsidising of merchant ships which are competing against specially heavy foreign subsidies.—Reuter.

MIXED BATHING BANNED IN CANTON

"Feminine Curves Are Objectionable"

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 29. Mixed bathing in Canton will be a thing of the past after July 1, when all public bathing beaches will provide separate swimming place for men and women in compliance with the instructions of the provincial authorities. "Feminine curves are objectionable," declared Rear-Admiral Chang Chi Ying, Commandant of the Canton River Flotilla, who sponsored the ban on mixed bathing. "This mixed affair does not promote good morals and distracts young men from swimming."

So convincing is the argument of the Admiral that the government authorities accepted his plea and decreed that young men and women should not swim on the same beach. The classical virtues, in the opinion of the critics, do not permit the mixing of male and female in scantily knitted bathing suits.

While serving as a colonel in the Kwangsi campaign, Admiral Chang fought courageously and did not shudder a bit at the exploding of shells and the rain of bullets. But the sight of the feminine figure in an ultra-modern bathing suit gave a surprise to the flotilla commandant.

A pall of gloom descends on the smart set, who look upon bathing as a means of social contact rather than as an aquatic sport. As dancing is prohibited by the police authorities, the moderns find that bathing is the best diversion in the summer months.

"We won't go swimming any more without our girl friends."

BRITISH CANCER RESEARCH FUND

The Honorary Treasurers have great pleasure in stating that the result of the Campaign has been the collection of £411,124 and sterling drafts for this amount have been forwarded to His Excellency Sir William Peel, K.C.M.G., and the Fund is now being closed.

His Excellency has forwarded the drafts to the Secretary of the Campaign in London.

His Excellency desires to express his great appreciation of the generous response made to his appeal and to tender his sincere thanks to all those who whether by personal service or by generous donations have contributed to the success achieved.

ADVANCE OF THE STERLING

A Temporary Halt Called?

London, June 29. A halt seems to have been called to-day in the recent advance of the sterling.

New York has been offering dollars in anticipation that President Roosevelt's speech will contain inflationary proposals, but with disappointment in these hopes, offerings are expected to subside. M. Reynaud's speech in the Chamber pointing out the existing difficulties in French industry and the large discrepancies between French and world prices, coupled with the recent disturbances in the provinces are causing some apprehension for the future of the franc.

There has been a movement of funds from Paris to London, British control accentuating the movement by offering francs. This action is severely criticised by the Financial News which points out that the fund is using up gold stocks which are already seriously depleted, and opines that it is better to leave the franc alone while it is weakening with a view to preserving the funds for seasonal defence of the sterling later in the year. On the other hand, opinion seems to be growing that Continental gold currencies are at present considerably overvalued in terms of sterling.—Reuter.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Amongst the passengers leaving for Shanghai on the Empress of Canada is Professor C. A. Middleton Smith of the University.

The quarantine restrictions imposed by the Government of the Straits Settlements against arrivals from Hong Kong on account of small-pox have been removed.

Mr. Harry Tubb of the British Legation in Peking and his daughter, Miss Joan Tubb, have returned from home leave in England. Mrs. Tubb is prolonging her stay at home.

Kwok Po, paint-scraper, received head injuries when he fell from a plank whilst scraping a ship at Messrs. W. S. Bailey and Company's shipyard, To Kwa Wan, on Thursday. The injured man was removed to the hospital.

An eight-year-old student of St. Peter's College, Cheung Hau Tan, has been missing from the College at Caine Road, where he was a boarder, since Thursday. The boy's parents are in Chiu-chow. It is feared that the boy might have been abducted.

A bank draft for $800, a quantity of clothing and some money, were stolen by armed robbers who entered a hut in Chuk Yuen village, Kowloon City district early on Thursday morning. The tenant and three of his women folk were gagged and trussed up, and the place was completely searched before the robbers made their escape.

A register of the water resources of the U.S.S.R. is being compiled, which will contain full scientific description of all rivers, lakes, marshes, underground waters, glaciers and seas in the Soviet Union. The register will be printed in 100 volumes, says Tass. A reference book in thirty volumes will be compiled and partly published by the end of 1934.

Officers of Nantao Public Safety Bureau are making inquiries into the mysterious shooting of Sunday night, when one Loo Ah San was killed. Officers of the Bureau were informed of the affair by one Wong Tse Kan who gave his address as 8 Ha Shing Lee, Kung Chu Road, and said that at 9 p.m. that day, a stranger ran into his house, shouting for help. A few seconds after, this man dropped dead on the floor. An examination of his body showed that the deceased suffered one gunshot wound in his chest. The Nantao Police made inquiries and later it was ascertained that the deceased was named Loo Ah San, but who had murdered him and what was the motive of the crime was unknown.

ANGLO-FRENCH TRADE AGREEMENT

Confidence In Trade Increase

London, June 28. The new Anglo-French trade agreement which was signed yesterday will come into operation on 1st July and is to remain in force till 1st April, 1935, and thereafter will be continued subject to the right of either Government to denounce it at any time so as to terminate it in three months at the end of quarter in which the notice is given.

Under the agreement, the text of which was issued to-night, each country undertakes the most favoured nation treatment in matters of customs duties, with certain exceptions.

All quotas in respect of United Kingdom goods are to be restored to 100 per cent. of the United Kingdom proportionate share in each trade concerned as calculated upon the figures of such trade in the basic period.

SURTAX TO BE REMOVED
The surtax of 20 per cent. imposed on certain French goods by the order of 9th February, 1934, is to be removed.

The agreement also contains certain provisions regarding the operation of the French quotas, designed to enable the United Kingdom to trade to the full the quotas allotted to it.

In addition to these undertakings regarding French quotas, guarantees have been given as to the quantities of many of the more important classes of United Kingdom goods subject to quota in France which will be admitted from the United Kingdom during the period of the agreement.

In regard to imports of United Kingdom coal into France, the French Government undertakes to maintain in full the existing percentage namely 49.5 per cent. of the normal global quota which at present is 58.5 per cent. of the average imports into France from all foreign sources in the period 1928 to 1930.

There are, in addition to the basic percentage, certain supplementary allocations for ports etcetera.

COAL PURCHASES

It is laid down that these shall not be reduced in greater proportion than the normal quota and shall remain open to free competition. For mechanical coal, freedom of purchase is to be maintained as at present. These guarantees regarding coal are linked with an agreement between the United Kingdom mineowners and the French coal importers regarding the purchase of pit props.

On the United Kingdom side, the duties on certain classes of goods imported from France which are of special importance to the latter country are fixed for the period of the agreement. The most important of these classes are silk and artificial silk.

United Kingdom duties on French brandy and sparkling wines are not to be increased during the period of the agreement.

A further clause of a type normal in recent French trade agreements makes provision as to the procedure if either Government should take action which upsets the equilibrium resulting from the agreement.—British Wireless.

STEEL STRIKE THREAT

Arbitration Board Appointed

Washington, June 28. The threatened strike in the steel industry which at one time seemed likely to bring half a million men out of work, has been averted.

A Board of three will be appointed to arbitrate the differences. Both sides have agreed to accept the decisions of the Board, which will be selected by President Roosevelt.

The steel agreement was negotiated by Miss Perkins, the Secretary of Labour, whose plan was approved by the President.

The Board has been appointed and consists of Judge Stacey, of North Carolina, Rear-Admiral (Ret.) H. E. Wiley, of New York, and James Mullenbach, of Chicago.

President Roosevelt has issued a statement proclaiming that the Board consists of impartial men

SPECIAL SILK DUTIES

Revised Schedule

London, June 28. Special silk duties forms one of the features of the agreement recently concluded between France and Britain.

In connection with the Anglo-French trade agreement, the Treasury has issued an order bringing into operation, as from July 2, a revised schedule for Customs and Excise duties on silk and articles made wholly or partly of silk or artificial silk.

The duties include special rates on eastern tissues known as Shantung, Ninghai, Nanshan, Honan, Antung and Habutal amounting to 3s. 6d. per pound where they are dyed or printed, and 2s. 9d. a pound where they are undyed or unprinted.

MADE-UP ARTICLES

In the case of made-up articles, consisting wholly or partly of silk or artificial silk, the rates of duty are unchanged, except where the value of the silk or the artificial silk component exceeds five per cent. but does not exceed 20 per cent. of the aggregate value of all components of the article. In this case, the duty is increased from twenty to 25 per cent.

In addition to the duty per pound on the Eastern tissues already specified, they will be subject to a duty of 25 per cent. of the full value of the article, or, in the case of dyed or printed tissues, 7d. per square yard whichever is the greater.—Reuter.

SATISFACTION IN BRITAIN

End to Taxes and Quotas

London, June 29. The terms of the new Anglo-French trade agreement give general satisfaction in British financial and commercial circles. The agreement puts an end to the unsatisfactory state of affairs existing since France embarked on a policy of surtaxes, turnover taxes and quotas all of which in the British view were discriminatory and called for retaliatory measures. In addition, the general survey of commercial relations of the two countries has enabled measures to be taken and concessions made which it is hoped and believed will increase the volume of mutual trade.

One of the main reasons why the agreement is made in the first instance for a comparatively short period to 1st April is to test its provisions in practice and in particular those which apply to silk.

In this connection correspondence is published between the Chairman of the Import Duties Advisory Committee and the Chancellor of the Exchequer, on which the former expressed the view that duties on raw and artificial silk hampered home industry.

The Chancellor, who had earlier refused to sacrifice revenue produced by duties, later agreed, in order to facilitate securing of a satisfactory commercial agreement, to take the risk of an unbalancing budget to the extent involved in reducing duties on raw and artificial silk by fifty per cent.

The loss in revenue is estimated at between £2,500,000 and £3,000,000 in a full year although it should be noted in this connection that changes were advocated by the Import Duties Advisory Committee as in the interests of British trade and industry.—British Wireless.

of thoroughly independent judgment and fully empowered to act. The functions of the Board will be limited to labour relations in the iron and steel industry.

The President anticipates that the Board will serve to maintain industrial peace with justice and the further establishment of sound labour relations in this important industry.

He confidently expects the full co-operation of both sides.—Reuter.

GENERAL O'DUFFY

WIMBLEDON TENNIS

Yamagishi Loses to Crawford

In the fourth round of the Wimbledon tennis championship games to-day, Jack Crawford (holder) defeated Yamagishi, the conqueror of Lester, 4-8, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

The Japanese gave a brilliant display against the Australian, giving the conviction that with suitable regular training he would get to the top of the tennis world in four or five years' time.

Yamagishi's backhand and cross-court passing shots were equal to Crawford's, but not in essential control, speed and forehand driving. His service was excellent and he often beat the champion with aces.

The Japanese played a really brainy game and was doing more volleys in the last two sets and putting up a keener struggle than the score suggests.

MIKI-MISS ROUND COMBINATION

In the second round of the Mixed Doubles, Miki and Miss Dorothy Round, beat Freshwater and Mrs. Robinson 8-1, 6-3.

The Miki-Round combination was too strong for the English country players. Miki's well-placed volleys frequently left his opponents standing and so well was he backed up that the crowd said that the English players were up against two men.

Miki and Miss Round were not extended in their win. Miki told Reuter that he found Miss Round an admirable partner and expected to go far.

JAPANESE BEATEN

In the Doubles, Gandar Dower and Malfroy beat Aoki and Fujikura 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 12-14, 6-3. The game was very strenuously fought for two and a quarter hours in a slow court with a nasty cross-wind blowing the whole time.

The Japanese won the fourth set owing to superior net work and the uncertain ground strokes of Gandar Dower, although the Englishman was leading five games to three and 40/15.

Fujikura played well though his style was more suited to a singles player. Aoki lent good support, but tried to do too much.—Reuter.

HENRY COTTON WINS

British Golf Title

London, June 29. Henry Cotton, the comparatively young British professional at the Waterloo Club in Brussels, crowned his wonderful performance in the British Open Golf contest at Sandwich by winning the championship with a score of 283, the first British victory since 1923.

A high wind made conditions very difficult to-day and at the end of the morning round he had scored 72 making a total of 204, which was a record for the three rounds of the championship. He led by ten strokes from the American, J. Kirkwood.

Henry Cotton's scores for the four rounds were—87, 65, 72, 79, making a total of 283. The following were the other scores at the end of the third round—Kirkwood 214, Dallegagne 215, Padgham 218, Whitcombe, Davies and Brews 217, McLean 222, Sarazen 222.—Reuter.

ELECTION RIVALS

Almost Neck and Neck

Dublin, June 29. A stalemate appears inevitable in the local Irish Free State elections. The Flanna Fail (Mr. Eamon De Valera) and the United Ireland Party (General O'Duffy) are almost neck and neck.

A significant feature is the success of the Independent Party, particularly in urban districts. From this it is inferred that many electors prefer to keep local affairs apart from Party politics. In any event, neither of the principal parties will be able to claim a decisive verdict on the Government's agricultural policy and the continuance of the economic war which were made the Cardinal issues.

Political circles in Dublin are discussing the possibility of Mr. De Valera going to the country to seek a verdict on a wider Parliamentary franchise.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI LOTTERY

Sixth Drawing Results

Shanghai, June 29. Despite a continuation of the heat wave, a huge crowd, mostly Chinese, attended the sixth drawing of the National State Lottery at the Candrome to-day.

The first prize of $500,000 was drawn by No. 025251 which was not sold. On being re-drawn it was won by No. 278487.

The second prizes were drawn by Nos. 171551 and 487407. The third prizes were won by Nos. 073916, 317755, 293986 and 062115.—Reuter.

FERMANAGH BYE-ELECTION

London, June 29. The bye-election for the Fermanagh Constituency consequent on the death of Mr. Joseph Delvin, Nationalist, has resulted as follows:—

J. Stewart (Nationalist) 23,790.
D. McCrossan (Ind.) 12,089.—Reuter.

POPE GRANTS AUDIENCE TO AVIATORS

Vatican City, June 28. His Holiness the Pope to-day granted an audience to the Transatlantic fliers, Captain Pond and Lieut. Sabelli, and listened with interest to the details of their flight.

When he heard that they proposed to return from Dublin in New York, the Pope blessed all their projects.—Reuter.

GENERAL STRIKE IN THE EVENT OF WAR

Resolution Reviewed By T. U. C. Labour Party

London, June 29. The attitude of uncompromising opposition to war in all circumstances was abandoned at the conference of leaders of the Trade Union Council Labour Party which reviewed a resolution passed by the Labour Party at the conference last year calling for a general strike in the event of war.

The conference drew up a statement declaring it is necessary to distinguish between war and aggression, and one to be undertaken in defence of peace.

The statement declares that Labour emphatically opposes any aggressive war, but circumstances might occur in which Britain will be compelled to resort to force in support of the League to restrain an aggressor nation.

The statement will be submitted to the forthcoming conference of the Trade Union Council Labour Party.

The radical labour papers welcome the statement as strengthening collective guarantees for peace.—Reuter.

MARIE DRESSLER'S ILLNESS

New York, June 28. Marie Dressler lying ill at Santa Barbara, California, is now in a critical condition. Her doctors, however, are of opinion that her strong will may enable her to pull through. Enquiries are pouring in from all over the United States.—Reuter.

EMPIRE FOOD SHIPS

London, June 28. The motor vessel Walpawa of 10,760 tons, the second of two Empire food ships which Harland and Wolff are building for Shaw, Savill and Albion Company, was launched at Belfast to-day. The vessel will be engaged between London and New Zealand via the Panama Canal.—British Wireless.

SOVIET DEBTS TO AMERICA

Negotiations For Funding

Washington, June 29. It is learned that the negotiations for funding Russian debts to the United States have reached a stalemate in Moscow.

The negotiations are expected to be transferred to Washington where American officials believe that the atmosphere will prove more favourable.

Circles in touch with the negotiators, however, do not expect a settlement before the end of the summer.

Rapid progress is reported to have been made towards an agreement on the capital amounts to be funded, but serious differences are said to have arisen on questions of rate of interest and methods of payment.—Reuter.

ANGLO-AMERICAN NAVAL TALKS END

Franco-American Parley Being Arranged

London, June 28. It is learned from American sources that the London Anglo-American naval talks have terminated and no further discussions are likely until the French, Italian and Japanese delegates arrive in London.

Mr. Norman Davis conferred with M. Corbin, French Ambassador, this morning preparing the way for Franco-American naval talks in the belief that Anglo-American talks are ended, substantiated by the fact that no arrangements have been made for further meetings.—Reuter.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Recovery Campaign Achievements

Washington, June 28. Broadcasting a message to the nation for the first time since last October, President Roosevelt, summed up the achievements of his recovery campaign, which he advanced by asking the following questions:—

Are you better off than you were last year? Are your debts less burdensome? Is your bank account more secure? Are your working conditions better?

He said there was no doubt what the answers were.

Three Necessities.
The three steps necessary for the safeguarding of the national life, were relief, Recovery, and Reform, coupled with reconstruction.

These were necessary, first, owing to the paralysis caused by the mad chase after unearned income and riches that had characterized the past ten years, secondly, because many of to-day's troubles were due to a lack of understanding of the elementary principles of justice and fairness by the leaders of business and finance, and thirdly, by reason of the development of new conditions in the national economic life.

Adding evidence of the success of his policies, President Roosevelt pointed to the gains in the total of payrolls, the improvement in employment, the rise in the value of farm products and the saving of many thousands of homes from foreclosures.

These gains had been achieved, he said, without loss of rights or liberty or of constitutional freedom.

The toes of some people have been stepped on, he admitted, but these were the toes that belonged to the comparatively few.

The future programme for social insurance involved the provision of better homes and better use of land and water resources, and the provision of social insurance.

Tested American Ideals
"We are fulfilling old and tested American ideals. Other nations may sacrifice democracy for transitory stimulation through old and discredited autocracies. We are restoring confidence and well-being under the rule of the people."

The President, concluding, reviewed the work of Congress, and declared that the most important measures enacted in the monetary system, establishing standards adequate for modern life and doing justice both to gold and silver as bases for the currency of the United States.—Reuter.

LAST INSTALLMENT OF DARROW REPORT

Washington, June 28. The third instalment of Mr. Clarence Darrow's report on the "Blue Eagle" practices and the N.R.A. Codes, has been completed and forwarded to President Roosevelt. The Darrow Board has finished its work and will now disband. Mr. Darrow has resigned.—Reuter.

AVIATORS ATTEMPT NEW RECORD

Harbour Grace, June 29. The Polish brothers, Adam Owczar, departed at 6.25 a.m. for Warsaw in an attempt to beat the non-stop straight line flying record.—Reuter.

HENDON AIR DISPLAY

Delegations From Thirty Countries

London, June 29. Delegations from thirty foreign countries many of them arriving by air, will attend to-morrow's annual Royal Air Force display at Hendon.

The display has become much more than a national event arranged by the Air Force for Service Charities and is now regarded in international aviation circles as one of the principal items in the year.

Most of the display of flying arranged for Monday at Hendon by the Society of British Aircraft Constructors is an affair more of a technical nature, but hardly less interesting in character where new types of British aircraft can be inspected closely.—British Wireless.

SHIP OFFICERS

Exempted From Examinations

Nanking, June 29. The Ministry of Communications announced that ship captains with the following qualifications are exempted from the examinations required by the Ministry.

Firstly, those who have already taken out certificates from the ministry either as captains or first officers and whose active service in the capacity specified in their certificates have reached five years or more, and, secondly, those who have served as captains or first officers for ten years or more.—Reuter.

ARMY HEADS CONFER

National Defence Questions

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, June 29. Questions of national defence and suppression of Communists have been decided here following a military conference by high army commanders of Kwangtung, Kwangsi and Hunan, declared Mr. Hsiao Fu Chen, member of the South-west Political Council.

Mr. Hsiao said that General Ho Chen, Chairman of the Hunan Provincial Government, is shortly to visit Hong Kong to interview Mr. Hu Han Min, former President of the Legislative Yuan, and then to take a steamer to return to Hunan via Shanghai. He added that General Pai Hsueh Hsi, the Kwangsi military leader, has to remain in Canton to secure medical treatment for his injured arm.

"The political situation (i.e. Canton-Nanking relations) has been studied and a common stand has been reached," Mr. Hsiao continued. "This is only a general statement, and further elaboration is undesirable at the moment. We oppose the resumption of railway traffic between China and Manchukuo, but it is no use merely to issue a circular telegram against that arrangement."

"How to cope with the political situation has been decided. Whether there will be political expansion depends on the circumstances of the development."

It is learned that General Ho Chen has definitely thrown in his lot with Kwangtung and Kwangsi with regard to the military defence of the South-west and national problems.

The Hongkong International Amateur Swimming Association held a very successful meeting this week and judging from the enthusiasm displayed by members of the Council representing the various Clubs, this season's swimming and water-polo programme is likely to be even better than last season's.

The most important item was of course the Association's water-polo League which should be in full swing towards the middle of next month and with R. Goldman, A. G. Dunn and possibly Harold Wing Lee of the Young Companions' Association managing it, the prospects look very good.

To date the Hongkong University, the Royal Navy, The European Y.M.C.A., the Young Companions and the Chinese Bathing Club are intending to enter the League and as South China have yet to hold their final meeting confirming their entry, it looks very much as if the League will be strongly represented.

Unfortunately financial difficulties have prevented the Chung Sling Benevolent Society and the Chinese Civil Servants Bathing Club from entering the League and indications point to their non-entry in any of the Association's activities this year. The Civil Servants will be badly missed as they possess some very promising men including Mak Wal-ming, the small but useful middle and long distance swimmer and Association Diving Champion, and Chan Fook-sing who ranks among the fastest of the Chinese sprinters both in the Free and Breast strokes.

However, I have learnt that they may possibly join South China and strengthen the latter's chances in this season's swimming championships.

It has also come to my notice that several of the Chinese Athletic's swimmers have joined the ranks of the Chinese Bathing Club so that with South China, they will probably be the strongest represented Club in the Association's forthcoming swimming championships.

There is every possibility of an interport contest with Canton towards the end of the season and arrangements for this will be fully discussed at the next Association meeting.

The Chinese Athletic Association hold their first night swimming gala to-day and an open team race to swimming Clubs of the Colony will be the main feature. It is quite probable that the Victoria Recreation Club will again carry off this event as they did at South China's Charity swimming gala.

EMIGRANTS' CASH

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, June 28.

The maximum cash allowed to emigrants to take out of Germany was altered by a decree on Thursday from ten thousand to two thousand marks. The stipulations, however, of the so-called "Palestine agreement" which regulates the flow of both emigrants and German wares to Palestine, remain unaffected by the order.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SABOTAGE IN AUSTRIA

Wave of Dynamite

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Vienna, June 28.
The second great wave of dynamiting rose to its highest in Upper Austria in the small hours of Thursday morning, shaking Dollfuss's battered ship State so violently as to cause a hasty Cabinet meeting here at noon.

Among the more spectacular sabotage acts so far reported was the smashing of the famous scenic railway, Innsbruck Garmisch Partenkirchen in three different places. Near Bludenz, the rails flew into the air less than an hour after the train bearing M. Barthou, the French foreign Minister, back to Paris had passed. Further holes were blasted out in Austria's badly torn railroad net in two places in the province of Steiermark, one in Lower Austria and the other on the outskirts of Salzburg. The saboteurs in all cases did their work thoroughly felling telephone poles and severing electric lines.

The outstanding act of terrorism, however, was perpetrated in Kufstein where the city's high pressure water lines were blown resoundingly to bits on the neighbouring hilltop. Detonations echoed and re-echoed in the valley while giant pieces of metal and stone rained on the houses beneath, at the same moment all lights were extinguished and torrents of water plunged down the hillside. Simultaneously the transformer station and waterworks in other parts of the city were rocked under other explosions.

In Innsbruck, a night watchman of the newspaper plant "Tyrola" found a suspicious parcel lying on the roof and tossed it up to the garden of a closed restaurant next door. The resulting explosion left a junk heap of the garden and blew in every window of the "Tyrola" building. Salzburg as usual was well up in the list of storm centres with attempts on waterworks, railway station, post office, theatre, casino as well as the offices of the Dollfuss organisation "Fatherland Front".—Transocean Kuo Min.

Saarbrücken, June 28.

The Amnesty Bill proffered by the League of Nations Governing Commission was accepted by all parties in the Thursday session of the Saar Parliament. The general lack of enthusiasm, however, was well expressed by Deputy Martin when, speaking for the "German Front," he asked the Commission to admit that its own draconian laws had contributed to the unrest of the population, and demanded that the sharp regulations be given up or at least toned down in future.—Transocean Kuo Min.

CLEARING HOUSE BILL

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

London, June 28.

The Clearing House Bill became law on Thursday evening after having been passed by the House of Commons with slight modification proposed by the House of Lords, and having been signed by His Majesty the King.—Transocean Kuo Min.

YOUR VIEWS AND MINE!

A Weekly Column of Local Gossip

By "The Scout"

HONG KONG'S TRADE

It is gratifying to see that the question of Hong Kong's trade is receiving the attention of the authorities and that it is proposed to appoint a Committee to inquire into the matter. Numerous suggestions have from time to time appeared in the columns of the local newspapers and no doubt the findings and recommendations of committee will be awaited with much interest by the business population of the Colony. The matter of pig breeding and poultry farming in the New Territories also will be investigated by another Committee and it would seem that the Government is making a serious effort to explore the possibilities of trade revival in Hong Kong.

BUILDING DEVELOPMENT

It is interesting to read that the building trade showed considerable activity last year, although it did not touch the high level set in 1931. The Colonial Secretary's report which was published in the "Daily Press" revealed the fact that in addition to a number of commercial buildings, over a thousand European and Chinese houses were put up last year. In the assessor's report, however, we read that the average monthly number of vacant flats during 1933 was 1,100 and that this was the highest number on record, the previous highest being 445 in 1927-1928. When the figures for 1934 are published, I am sure a more depressing state of affairs will be revealed, since the number of houses put up this year must be very much smaller than in 1933 and the number of vacant flats much bigger. To anyone interested in the question of housing in Hong Kong, a walk through some of the streets of Wanchai (and Shamshuipo on the mainland) will reveal how many vacant houses there are today. "Build, build and yet build" seemed to have been the slogan of landlords during the past few years. The trade depression seems to be dealing landlords quite a heavy blow just now.

HONG KONG LAD'S SUCCESS

The report received in the Colony during the week of the success of Mr. George S. Zimmern, who was called to the Bar, Gray's Inn, this month, is very gratifying and within a few months, Mr. Zimmern hopes to be back in Hong Kong. Another local man who proceeded Home to further his studies was Dr. D. Laing, of whom I hear a very encouraging report. Dr. Laing came through with flying colours in ophthalmology, rhinology and ear and throat work in Guy's Hospital, where he is now resident surgeon. Like Mr. Zimmern, Dr. Laing will be returning to the Colony very soon.

THE WATER SUPPLY

Thanks to the very heavy rain during the past ten days the Colony is once again served with a full supply of water. In the not distant future, with the completion of the Shing Mun Scheme, such a thing as restriction in the matter of water supply will probably be unknown. The rain certainly came at the right time this year, as water restrictions in summer are very trying. Those who have had to miss their tennis and bowls because of the state of the weather may not greet the rain with the same delight as the rest of us, but those who can recall the toilsome days of the water shortage in 1930 are undoubtedly grateful that the rain came when it did.

WATER CHARGES

Now that there is plenty of water in the reservoirs (so much in fact that an overflow is reported), would it not be possible to further reduce the charges that are being made for water? Everywhere there is complaint that the water charges are too high and since the amount collected last year exceeded the amount estimated for, would it not be possible to grant a further reduction at present, so as to alleviate as much as possible, the plight of those who have to bear the burden of the water charges?

MADAME LALE

One of the topics of conversation in the Colony during the past week has been Madame Lale's predictions with regard to the future of this Colony and of China. I am informed that quite a number of people have consulted the seer. Her startling pronouncement with regard to the fate of the Chinese leaders is as interesting as her prediction that Hong Kong will recover from the trade depression. It will be interesting to see if the earthquake which she has predicted will occur in Japan will come about. If one is to believe in her prophecies, the immediate future in the Far East does not seem at all bright.

DOGS AGAIN

Once more I shall bring up the question of unlicensed dogs. I read that quite a number were seen at Repulse Bay over the week-end. Dog-lovers certainly must realize the danger to which they expose other people by allowing their pets to roam freely about the beach and it is to be hoped that the authorities will spare no pains to bring home to dog owners, guilty of such thoughtlessness, the error of their ways. It is one thing to give your dog some exercise, and quite another to jeopardise the safety of other people.

POLICE STATISTICS

It is interesting to read that the number of serious crimes in Hong Kong during 1933 was slightly less than in the preceding year but that the number of minor offences have grown considerably. We read that there were in all 5,330 serious cases and 25,350 minor cases. Of these cases, 28,159 were dealt with at the Magistrate's in Hong Kong, with two courts sitting and 19,625 in Kowloon. As the figures above will show, the proportion of serious cases to minor offences is about one in six. The average number of cases tried in the Kowloon Court per day (making due allowances for Sundays and other holidays) works out at about 66, which means, according to the proportion shown above, 55 minor cases and 11 serious cases. What a day it must be for the Magistrate, who in addition to his magisterial duties, has to sit as Coroner from time to time!

RETURN TO FREE AND UNRESTRICTED TRADE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, June 28.

Speaking before several hundred representatives of German Chambers of Commerce abroad here on Thursday, the Reich Minister of Economy, Dr. Schacht, made a strong plea for the return to free and unrestricted world trade but stressed that this problem could not be solved by individual action.

"Germany is doing her best," said the Minister, "to obtain the necessities of life by trade expansion but if the world fail in this then the German people will have the necessary energy to maintain their economic life on strictly national basis by restricting imports, producing new raw materials and reorganising the entire economic order. We are not desirous of bringing about such development since it would mean further shrinking of world trade, but if left to no choice then the German people will have to master this difficulty in the same way in which they tackled the unemployment problem."

The same subject was tackled in no uncertain manner by the deputy leader of the National Socialist party, Rudolf Hess, in a speech before the same forum. He said, "If we really decide to make ourselves independent then we will do so with the resolution which always distinguished Germany when she felt the basis of

BLOOD-MONEY

A Real Thriller

Howland Brown, author with Harold Long of "Blood Money," and also its director says that this 30th Century Picture reveals conditions that exist in virtually every large city. If it's true, it's something to think about.

And whether truth or fiction, "Blood Money," is a rattling fast yarn with plenty of suspense, excitement and drama of the hold-life thriller type.

The workings of the ball bond racket; how criminals are set at large to continue their careers; how the efforts of district attorneys, judges and honest men are set at naught are brought out in "Blood Money."

Bill Bailey is a professional bondman who wields such an unscrupulous power in the underworld and in politics that his word is law both up and down the social scale.

He has been engaged in a profitable partnership for a number of years with Ruby, the beautiful proprietress of a fashionable gambling speakeasy. In love and business they have always played fair, for it was Ruby's stake of a $20 bill, taken from her stockpile, that started Bailey's successful career in ball bonds.

However, Elaine Talbert, a wealthy society girl who likes underworld thrills, is destined to change all that. Elaine meets Bailey when he goes her ball for "shillbills," standing for a thrill in her pastime.

Bailey becomes infatuated with Elaine, a type new to him. This brings about a break with Ruby, whose handsome young brother Drury, is a bank robber with an obsession for beautiful women. While out on bail after a hold daylight robbery, Drury meets Elaine, and the girl, thrilled to death, responds ardently to the young rascal's play for her.

It is when Elaine on her eternal quest for thrills, acts just the reverse on Drury's request that she deliver $50,000 in gold certificates to Bailey for his bail, which he is going to jump, and destroy $300,000 in registered bonds, that the plot gets very tangled and very dangerous for everyone concerned, especially Bill Bailey who finds himself playing pool with a ball loaded with nitroglycerine.

Ruby, however, saves the day.

There are a lot of excellent characterizations in "Blood Money." George Bancroft gives such vitality and force to the character of Bill Bailey that you wonder how the screen has gotten along without him all these months. This is his first picture under his new contract with Joseph M. Schenck and Harry F. Zandek for 20th Century, releasing through United Artists.

Frances Dee, Chick Chandler and Judith Anderson—Broadway stage star making her screen debut, play the other leading roles and do them splendidly. Miss Anderson should find a definite niche in pictures for her histrionic talents and her outstanding personality.

"Blood Money" is the new attraction for to-morrow at the Alhambra and will more than please the thrill-seeker.

"LONDON CALLING"

Best Wishes To Melbourne

An exchange of letters between the Lord Mayor of London (Sir Percy W. Grayson) and the Lord Mayor of Melbourne (Mr. H. Gonsoult-Smith) has taken place concerning the Centenary Celebrations. In his letter the Lord Mayor of London wrote that "Melbourne may well be proud of its achievement in making such excellent progress in 100 years, from virgin country to the beautiful city which to-day is considered to be one of the finest in the Empire."

The letter concluded as follows: "We rejoice with you in the progress of Australia and in conveying greetings from the City of London to the people of Victoria. It gives me great pleasure to express good wishes for the success of the Centenary Celebrations, and the hope that continued prosperity may attend the City of Melbourne."

Her existence is threatened. Let no one suppose in the inventive powers of our scientists, and the technicality of our industry in the sphere of creating substitutes, has grown less.—Transocean Kuo Min.

"I obtained the most excellent results with Kalzana in the treatment of my skin. The patient regained his original health and the period was regular."

Follow this natural course to Care-free Health

Every physician knows that periodical sufferings and pain need not be inevitable to women. In nearly every case, a shortage in the body of vital minerals is at the root of the trouble. Because lack of minerals is responsible for the much dreaded pain and profuse loss, Kalzana, the mineral food, is regularly used by hundreds of thousands of women. They know from experience that with Kalzana they will be able to enjoy natural, care-free health again.

Kalzana works hand in hand with Nature. Physicians all over the world are now prescribing Kalzana when irregularities of the functions occur, because they know that Kalzana works hand in hand with nature. Kalzana is a food and not a drug, therefore it can be taken under all circumstances. It must do you good.

Kalzana, moreover, gives a new power of resistance to both body and blood, and combats all the conditions due to lack of vital minerals, such as general weakness, with decay, frequent headaches, irritable nerves, high blood pressure, etc.

Start your Kalzana and you will break your vicious habit of suffering and get your entire system back to normal.

LATE NIGHT CABLES

The following cables received last night are forwarded by the American Oriental Finance Corporation and Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company.

London Forecast
Wall Street steady with little business is anticipated, owing to the approach of the week-end though a more settled atmosphere should prevail in view of the virtual settlement of the steel dispute. In the commodity markets, wheat and cotton are expected higher. Heat in the plains is very severe, while in Texas the drought is one of the worst on record. Other markets expected to be a little better.

A.O.F.C. New York Cable
Commodities: The market opened off light. The President's speech was not as constructive as

CHINA'S TARIFF

Nanking, June 29.
While official circles are very reticent over the details of the revised import tariff, it is learned from reliable sources that the tariff has been increased on "necessities."

Among the articles on which the tariff has been reduced, are understood to be cotton goods, and fisheries and sea products, whose import tariff is reduced to about 5 per cent.

The existing tariff is 30 per cent, and the revised tariff 25 per cent.—Reuter.
had been anticipated. Gold price rose urged but unlikely.
Silver: There was some investment buying and some liquidation only possibly the treasury is buying September.
Cotton: There are southern and realizing sales. The trade and Europe are modest buyers.

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, June 28.
The American Oriental Finance Corporation report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:—
Stocks:—Sentiment is more cheerful and evidently Wall Street expects the President's radio address to be encouraging. A little more confidence has been manifested in the stock market. Gold mining, metals, sugars and packing issues continue to be in favour. Business done: 640,000 shares.
Wheat:—The absorbing of hedging sales and of local offerings and the large movement of the crop in the South-West have increased the strength of Corn. The fear that heat will cause damage in parts of the American North-West had some effect on the market. Wednesday's sales: 29,489,000 bushels.
Cotton:—Prices closed at around the day's best levels. Buying was more general. The supply of contracts was quiet and limited. Sentiment was aided by the improvement in grains. Weather conditions are clear.
Silver:—Futures were sharply higher on speculative buying of distant months and the market continued to absorb July offerings, which were credited to Government account. March option was sold at 48.64, within a fraction of fifty cents, the basis on which the Government is expected to value silver. It was the opinion of the market that this was the present objective of bull operators. Total sales: 234 contracts.
Rubber:—Market featureless. Total sales: 489 contracts.

AIR ATTACK ON PARIS

Prediction By French Paper

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Berlin, June 28.

Referring to the recent report by a Paris periodical predicting a "gigantic German air attack on Paris" for the middle of July and to the Wickham steels gruesome "revelations" in a London paper concerning the alleged German preparations for wiping out the entire cities by chemical and bacteriological warfare, the semi-official "Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz" points out that "here in the midst of peace, such atrocity and panic propaganda is being fabricated, as hitherto known only in times of war and even such times are never surpassed."

After stressing that this revival of anti-German propaganda was evidently serving the purpose of making enormous increase of French armaments palatable to the French public, the semi-official organ goes on to say that those inspiring new Press campaign against Germany was assuming responsibility of ghastly magnitude "because they were creating an atmosphere of fear and hate, encouraging all sorts of incidents and complications and opening up gloomy perspectives which it is hoped may cause those

REDUCTION OF CAPITAL

Millington's Shareholders Pass Resolution

Shanghai, June 28.

The decision to reduce the paid-up capital of Messrs. Millington Limited by $329,230.77 was reached yesterday, when an extraordinary general meeting of shareholders followed the annual general meeting, held at 688 Szechuen Road with Mr. E. F. Harris in the chair. The shareholders present represented 10,033 shares.

The chairman pointed out, in the course of his speech bringing to the shareholders the recommendation of the directors that the capital be reduced, that the directors have devoted the past twelve months to reorganizing the company, and that, burdened with a loss of $165,414.25 it would be some time before the shareholders would benefit, although they believed that the company will now be able to show profits.

The loss from January to June this year has yet to be definitely ascertained and was partly occasioned by the removal of the premises to new quarters, partly by the fact that reorganization was now completed and partly by the necessity to increase reserves on Sundry Debtors.

DESTROYERS AND PLANES

Oban Saved During West Coast Manoeuvres

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, June 14.

Naval exercises, in which ships of the Home Fleet have taken part during the past week in the west of Scotland, concluded yesterday with a mimic battle off the Argyllshire coast.

The ships which took part left Oban at two o'clock yesterday morning and proceeded out to sea. They were H.M.S. Iron Duke and the Albatross, and the destroyers Winchester and Viscount. They were joined by four other destroyers from Tobernory.

The manoeuvres consisted mainly of submarine hunting between the Outer Hebrides and west of Mull. Four flying boats, directed from the wireless station at the South Pier, Oban, assisted the fleet to locate enemy craft.

The fifth and sixth submarines, flotillas were supposed to be advanced

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Berlin, June 28.

Both the operators and the public showed considerable caution on Thursday so that the sharemarket remained inactive but for the most part prices nevertheless did not decline greatly. Fixed interest securities were neglected, gains and losses being about equal. The mortgage and municipal bonds were almost unchanged.

Call Money 4 to 4 1/2, Young Loan 4 lower at 90 1/2, Reichsbank down 1/2 to 154 1/2, Dreyfus slumped 2 1/2 to 147 1/2, Salzgitter slumped 1/2 to 147 1/2, German Steel Trusts declined 1/2 to 40 1/2, German Mineral Oils 1 lower to 120 1/2, Siemens slumped 1/2 to 149 1/2, Bemberg Rayon 1/2 better at 69 1/2, and Laymayer Electric slumped 1/2 to 122 1/2.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ing to take Oban. During the exercises torpedoes were fired from the submarines.

Weather conditions were very favourable, and visibility from the air extended over 30 miles in the early morning.

All the submarines were spotted well within the stipulated time. The fleet afterwards returned to Oban, where it will be stationed till June 20.

Prior Experience
"So you think you would be a suitable valet for me," said the old man to the applicant. "I must remind you that I'm pretty much of a wreck. I have a glass eye, a cork leg, artificial arm that needs looking after, not to mention a wig and false teeth."

"That would be all right, sir," responded the other. "I've had plenty of practice. You see, I once worked in the assembly room of a big motor concern."
